HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 18.

While hundreds of people, pouring into this town from all over Long Island milled about the town hall striving vainly to crowd into the tiny room in which the inquest into the death of Benjamin P. Collings began this morning, District Attorney Blue of Suffolk County declared his office had requested Mrs. Lillian Collings to appear today.

"Last night my assistant, Fred H. Munder, at my orders called William A. Kelly of counsel for Mrs. Collings on the telephone and asked that she appear this morning to testify," Blue said. "Mr. Kelly replied that Mrs. Collings was in a state of complete nervous collapse."

PA NEW OBSERVES

Because of the inclination of boys to tamper with the bulletins posted outside The News, on football games the bulletins will be posted on the front windows inside the News Building tonight, and during the football season.

Pa Newc was on a flower seeing tour Thursday. Early in the afternoon he visited Oak street school and viewed the wonderful display of all kinds of flowers there, then in the evening he called at Mrs. Beisel's on East Wallace avenue and gazed for the first time upon the blossom of a night blooming cereus and then on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith, Oak street, where he saw eleven more of these gorgeous flowers in bloom.

It is really too bad that the gorgeous blooms that come on the night blooming plants can not be preserved for a length of time as they are of such an unusual and gorgeous nature, but a few hours and they are gone. New Castle persons have had several opportunities the past week for viewing these marvelous blooms.

Pa Newc noted one of the state health department water testing laboratory trucks on the streets here on Thursday afternoon. The travelling laboratories are used for making frequent tests of the water supply in all parts of the state.

Yesterday evening's rain nearly resulted in at least one automobile wreck on Long avenue, where the unused street car tracks protrude high above the street. One motorist, riding in the rain discovered numerous holes on the street near the tracks that had been hidden by the water.

Motorists who had occasion to travel out through the country early this morning report there was

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—Dismissal of three employees of the department of property and supplies today followed an investigation of charges that they had been intoxicated while riding in an official car at Berwick on September 10.

Those dismissed were:

P. F. Gallagher, Pittsburgh, deputy secretary of the department in charge of engineering and construction.

Reis Welsh, Pittsburgh, publicity director.

Kenneth A. Rugh, Bolivar, engineer in charge of District No. 1.

Both Gallagher and Welsh were appointed since the beginning of the present administration and are said to have been backed by Charles C. McGovern, Pinchot leader in Allegheny county.

John L. Hanna, secretary of property and supplies, said the three men were dismissed because "after an investigation they were found to have been intoxicated while on an official visit to Berwick September 10."

During the former Pinchot administration all employees were required to sign a pledge promising obedience to the 18th Amendment. The present pledge mentions only "support of the Pinchot policies" and not the 18th Amendment specifically.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—State Senator William D. Mansfield and Charles C. McGovern today won the two nominations for the county commissioner's office according to complete unofficial returns from all of Allegheny county's 922 districts.

The final unofficial tabulation, subject to slight revision, was:

Mansfield 179,627.

McGovern 140,967.

Armstrong 139,756.

Coyne 134,540.

It was expected that the official returns as announced by the county elections bureau might result in slight changes of the above figures. In any instance, however, there was no indication that the standings would be changed.

Claim Armstrong Wins

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, militant independent republican and staunch Pinchot ally who had been practically conceded his nomination to the Allegheny County Commission, has been defeated by Joseph G. Armstrong, according to a claim made this afternoon by Congressman Harry A. Estep.

Estep, Armstrong's campaign manager, claimed victory for Armstrong by 4,000 votes, he said.

Official returns from all election districts of the county now having been received and the return board about to start the tabulation, the regular Republican organization is satisfied that Joseph G. Armstrong has been nominated for the second place as county commissioner by not less than 4,000 majority.

HAMPTON, Va., Sept. 18.—With a coroner's verdict of pre-meditated murder against them, attorneys for Professor Elisha Kent Kane, University of Tennessee professor charged with drowning his pretty young wife, Jenny, today launched a final battle to obtain the release of the defendant on bail.

Their chances were admittedly slim. Rarely is a defendant in a capital case admitted to bail, and in the present instant Coroner Dr. G. K. Vanderslice rendered a verdict after four days of exhaustive inquest which bluntly went beyond a simple statement that in his opinion Mrs. Jenny Graham Kane came to her death by drowning at the hands of her husband, Elisha Kent Kane. After stating that formally, Vanderslice added this succinct statement to his decision:

"It was deliberate, premeditated murder."

Little Possibility.

In the face of this, there seemed little likelihood that Judge C. Vernon Spratley, who has twice previously obtained bail for the defendant, would do so again.

TOKYO, Sept. 18.—Definite announcement that they would resume their interrupted flight from Tokyo to Seattle was made today by Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California airmen, in a wireless dispatch to the Tokyo newspaper Asahi from Naarin Island, where they were forced down 24 hours after leaving Japan.

In the dispatch, Allen gave the first description of the hazards he and his companion encountered after they left Sabashiro Beach on an attempt to fly non-stop to Seattle for the $25,000 prize offered by the Asahi.

"Early on the trip from Sabashiro," Allen said in his message, "we had ideal weather.

"Reaching the Aleutian Islands, however, we encountered a terrific gale. The plane was swept from side to side for more than twenty hours. Without a moment's rest, Moyle and I kept up a superhuman effort to keep the plane aloft.

"Finally we landed on an uninhabited island in the Aleutians. We remained there seven days before the weather cleared, when we again took off and flew to the village of Mino Pigeon near Cape Navarin on Navarin Island.

Stop Sign Violators Are Being Ordered In

Police Enforce Main Thoroughfare Stop Regulation Throughout City

Violations by motorists of the regulations requiring a full stop at all main thoroughfares when about to cross them or enter them have become so frequent that the police are now engaged in a very careful watch of all points where there are such stop signs and are ordering in many motorists, whom they find doing this.

The motorcycle officers have been conducting this campaign and an average of three or four motorists have been ordered in each day and paid fines of $3 for such violations.

The police are determined that this regulation must be observed as failure to do so has been the cause of numerous accidents on the streets of the city in recent weeks. The police would appreciate a little closer co-operation in the matter by the motorists.

Jail Delivery In Delaware; During Riots

Guard And Convict Are Shot In Riot At Workhouse

LONG TERMERS GAIN FREEDOM

One Convict Is Recaptured After Being Shot Down

(International News Service)

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 18.—A guard and a convict were shot and 13 prisoners, mostly long-termers, escaped when the second riot and jailbreak within a year broke out at the New Castle Workhouse today.

The wounded were Anthony R. Hayden, a guard, reported shot by escaping prisoners, and Clarence Cole, a convict. Cole serving an 18-year term for banditry was shot down a dagger at his stomach. He was recaptured outside the institution.

Wilmington police were rushed to New Castle at once.

Prisoners Have Weapons

Source of the prisoners' weapons was not disclosed in first fragmentary reports.

In July of last year, seven men escaped after cutting a hole in a skylight. All have since been recaptured. Since that break, the honor system has been doomed.

Among the escaped prisoners, for whom a man hunt was started at once, were several members of the "Clover Dairy" gang—an organization which participated in the hold-up of the Clover Dairy plant at Wilmington last year.

The riot broke out in the workshop of the old prison. It had apparently been carefully planned. The convicts suddenly whipped out pistols and grabbed up rifles from hiding places.

A guard was ordered to open the locked door leading to the yard. When he declared he had no keys, one of the convicts thrust a stick of dynamite into the lock and blew the door open.

Howling and yelling, the convicts rushed upon a one-armed guard and held a dagger at his stomach. Some of the men shot the lock off the steel cage through which trucks drove into the prison yard to load cars.

By this time the sirens were

Plans Shaping Up For Canning Project Here

Immense Task Will Be Started Monday For Unemployed Relief

COMMENCE WORK OF GATHERING DONATIONS

Plans are being consolidated for the huge canning project which will be started here on Monday, when a great army of women will begin the task of canning the fruit and vegetables which is expected to be donated by farmers, gardeners, and citizens of the community.

Donations of fruit and vegetables are beginning to pour in, and those that will keep are being stored in the Martin Gantz building. The rest will be placed in cold storage until ready for use.

More donations of fruit and vegetables are desired and, in addition, a great number of jars, in addition to sugar and money, with which to purchase supplies, as it is not expected that enough of everything will be secured by donation.

Local residents who can give either money, jars, sugar, or canning materials, are asked to fill out the coupon in today's paper and send it or mail it to the Associated Charities, 8½ East street.

An appeal was made today by J. K. McQuiddy, general chairman of the Building Trades Council, to the organized union men of the city affiliated with the Trades and Labor Assembly or building Trades Council to get with him at the relief headquarters in the old Martin Gantz school building.

There is much to be done in the next ten days, Mr. McQuiddy states, and the union men are asked to put their shoulder to the wheel and to help keep it moving.

Farmers and fruit growers are co-operating with the committee and the services of a great number of men are needed to gather the surplus of food and haul it to town for distribution to the needy later in the year.

Herbert S. Kirk, in charge of the transportation of these materials, also makes an appeal for more trucks with which to haul the fruit and vegetables donated.

Councilmen Accept Gilfillan's Offer

Council met in the City building today and concurred in the recommendation of Municipal Engineer Frank Miller that the city accept the proposition of J. C. Gilfillan whereby he is to construct a sewer on his property and also that of Paul Ellsworth, Wilmington avenue. It will cost $10,000. Gilfillan offered to build the sewer with reinforced concrete pipe at that figure. The sewer is expected to eliminate the flooding of cellars.

quite a bit of fog. The air turned much colder last night, and following the rain of yesterday, caused quite a bit of fog.

The dry weather of the past few weeks has caused the leaves to start falling, particularly from the poplar trees.

When the clouds lowered early last evening and it started to get dark, the blackbirds began flocking to the trees along the western end of Park avenue. This is the first time this year that they have settled in this section, although they have been quite bad along the other end of Park avenue and along Boyles avenue.

Those in charge of the Community canning project report that not many responses to their plea for assistance have been reported so far. This is a most worthwhile project, and one which deserves the support of every citizen of the city and county.

It appears that the maple tree on the public square, which is now putting forth its second set of leaves for the present year, is not the only one in the city doing this. Pa. New's attention has been called to the fact that there is a good sized maple on the property of the Burke Funeral Home, North Jefferson street, which is also bursting forth in a complete new set of leaves at the present time. No doubt there are others in the city doing the same.

W. N. Newswander of West Pittsburg, jury commissioner, brought three fine big tomatoes to the News Office this morning for Fred L. Rentz. The largest weighed one and three-quarter pounds.

The message was relayed to Tokyo through the powerful Ochi-lisi wireless station, which obtained contact with the Soviet steamer Buriat. First word of the fliers' safety after they had been given up for lost for more than a week came on Wednesday from the Buriat.

Considerable difficulty was encountered in getting the message from the airmen due to unfamiliarity of the Buriat's wireless operator with the Japanese or English languages.

ABOARD THE PIATY KRABLOV, OFF KAMCHATKA PENINSULA, SIBERIA, Sept. 18.—Via Wireless To International News Service.—According to information I have been able to obtain the trans-Pacific monoplane flown by Don Moyle and Cecil Allen was compelled to land in the vicinity of Cape Navarin, Siberia, or to be more exact in Latitude 62 Longitude 180 at 12 o'clock on the 15th of September.

They had been in the air on their last flight for 34 hours when they were forced to land.

Await Good Weather.
The landing was made with full safety.

The fliers are equipped with warm clothing and with the necessary quantity of fuel and food.

All are well and when the weather is favorable they are intending to proceed for their home land.

The weather is clearing up today after a severe storm. The wind today had a velocity up to 22 miles an hour.

This dispatch from Captain Chebotniagin, whose vessel engaged in the crab canning industry, was believed near the vicinity in which Moyle and Allen landed, indicates that the fliers may have been down previously and that their stop at Navarin was the second in their flight from Japan to Seattle.

His reference to their being well supplied with fuel and food was taken to indicate these necessities had been obtained from the Russian combustible ship Buriat, now standing by the island of Pilegino, where the fliers have been storm bound.

To Resume Flight
WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—A message from the naval radio station at St. Paul Alaska, received here today said the trans-Pacific fliers, Don Moyle and Cecil Allen, expected to take off today for Seattle, via Nome.

The message stated the fliers were at Miami Pilegino and that weather in the vicinity of Nagarin was moderating rapidly.

McGOVERN WINS OVER ARMSTRONG

only through sending men out to check them, but have checked them also from the official returns received at the election bureau.

Estep concluded:

"There is no doubt but Mr. Armstrong has been nominated."

Senator W. D. Mansfield, of McKeesport, was conceded the first nominee for the commission.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—Although almost 72 hours have elapsed since the off-year primary polls closed, Allegheny county's political warfare continued at a merry clip today.

Co-incidental with widespread reports that efforts would be made to "count out" county commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Pinchot ally, who apparently had a safe plurality over Joseph G. Armstrong, the "Old Gray Mayor," 23 men were arrested early today in a series of disturbances.

These disorders included a rumored plot to terrorize guards watching ballot boxes in the sheriff's office and the slugging of Senator James J. Coyne, defeated commission candidate, as he left his headquarters here.

Independent Republican workers who supported McGovern and who have been guarding ballot boxes impounded in the sheriff's office called for police protection when they became suspicious of the actions of a crowd of men loitering about the office.

Rush Officers To Scene
Scout cars and patrols occupied by 30 officers were rushed to the scene, and the arrests followed. Supporters of Armstrong claimed the men arrested had gone to the courthouse to prevent a threatened raid on the ballot boxes.

Police Capt. John Barry said he learned a plot had been mapped out whereby a fire was to be started in the courtyard of the building with the aim of stealing the ballot boxes during the expected confusion.

McGovern, a militant campaigner whose three-night vigil over the ballot boxes last year was credited with insuring the election of Governor Pinchot, increased his precautionary measures this morning.

A staff of attorneys, two organizations of investigators and hundreds of independent volunteers banded together behind McGovern's standard to thwart alleged proposed attempts to tamper with the returns.

Their slogan was:

"Jail sentences for the thieves, win lose or draw."

McGovern, in a characteristically blunt statement, declared:

"This election has been won by the independent voters of Allegheny county and it's not going to be stolen at the last moment in spite of all the thieves."

COLLINGS WIDOW WILL NOT APPEAR AT MURDER PROBE

and he didn't know whether she would be able to do so.

Can't Compel Appearance
Asked if in the event Mrs. Collings refused to appear he would force her to do so, Blue replied:

"No. There is no process of law by which we could compel her to appear. If she does, it will be strictly of her own volition."

At Stamford, Conn., Homer S. Cummings, chief counsel for Mrs. Collings, denied all knowledge of Blue's request.

Coroner William B. Gibson, an elderly man of pleasant personality, who is conducting the inquest, declared that in her personal opinion it was important that Mrs. Collings be called to testify.

The inquest, according to Blue, will be a mere formality for the purpose of obtaining legal and official record of the cause of the death of Collings. Those summoned are N. L. Newman, the yachtman who found the drifting Penguin; the day after the pirate raid; George Devald, Harold Bernie and E. N. Knapp, Noteman's guests; Amza Biggs, Jr., police officer who found Collings' body yesterday morning; Herbert S. Collings, brother of the murdered man; Harold Howard, who found Mrs. Collings after she had been placed on the yacht Bo Peep by the pirates; and Sergeant Robert Forrest, Cove Neck policeman, who first heard Mrs. Collings' story.

Widow Not To Appear
Attorney William A. Kelley of counsel for Mrs. Collings, was one of the first to arrive this morning. He came with the news that Mrs. Collings would not appear.

He said that he had turned over several letters the Collings family had received to the district attorney's staff but refused to reveal who they were from or their general tenor.

Then he was asked if it was true that Mrs. Collings had told him that she had seen the two pirates tie the hands of her husband.

"She said she saw the two men tie his hands and they pushed her down into the cabin," he declared.

The inquest got under way with Amza Biggs, Jr., the policeman who found Collings' body yesterday morning. Under the questioning of Coroner Gibson, Biggs testified that while patrolling the beach in search of it, he saw the body washed ashore. He didn't touch it. He summoned a friend, Milton Brown to watch the body while he hurried away and telephoned Assistant District Attorney Fred Munder.

"Was the body ever left alone?" Coroner Gibson asked.

"No," replied the witness.

Seemed Calm
HUNTINGTON, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Mrs. Lillian Collins seemed calm and collected when she was found aboard the motor boat Bo Peep at 5:30 in the morning of September 10th, after having witnessed the slaying of Benjamin P. Collings, her husband, by the two pirates who boarded his yacht the Penguin, just seven hours before, according to the testimony of Sergeant Robert Forrest of the Cove Neck police at the coroner's inquest today.

"On that morning," Forrest testified, "I was awakened by a telephone call from a man named Herbert Howard at the estate of L. C. Smith who said there was a woman at his boat house who said her husband had just been thrown overboard. I dressed and hurried over there. I found a lady sitting on the Bo Peep. She appeared to be of the calm and collected type. Her eyes were clear as I talked to her. Occasionally she looked over the water as she told me the story of the night."

"Once or twice she seemed to be nervous. She didn't cry. Occasionally she rubbed her forehead reflectively. Like this," Forrest illustrated.

In response to District Attorney Alexander G. Blue's question as to how Mrs. Collings was dressed, Forrest replied:

"She had on a white mesh dress and white canvas shoes with black rubber soles. They were large shoes. She told me they had been given her by the elder of the two pirates."

"Any stockings?" asked Blue.

"No."

"When you first approached her, she greeted you with a smile, didn't she?"

"Yes."

"Any agitation in her voice?"

"Yes. When she spoke of getting into the canoe. She said she thought she'd better do as she was told after what had happened to her husband."

Sergeant Forrest related in full detail his questioning of Mrs. Collings. He asked her, he said, how long she had been around that section of Long Island Sound. She replied, "about three weeks."

In Daring Rescue

Dr. W. B. Davis (above), young physician of Powellton, W. Va., saved the life of Aukstok Cottler (inset), a miner, by one of the most daring and spectacular bits of surgery ever performed. Cottler was trapped when a slate fall occurred in a mine at Charleston, W. Va. While both of his arms were pinned to the ground at first, rescuers released the left one after hard work. The right one could not be extricated. So Dr. Davis crawled into a narrow tunnel and, lying on his back, successfully amputated the trapped arm. Cottler is rapidly recovering.

New Gas Line Pump Ordinance

Ordinance Provides Size And Regulations Concerning Pumps

Council met today in the city building and with all members present adopted unanimously an ordinance introduced by Councilman Genkinger which regulates the construction, installation, maintenance and operation of gasoline pumps here.

The bill also regulate the drawing-off, measuring devices, tanks and containers for the storage, handling, sale and dispensing of gasoline and any other volatile or inflammable liquid in the city. It also provides penalties and repeals inconsistent ordinances.

The provisions in brief are:

No pump or other gasoline device can be erected without conditions have been complied with and a permit granted by the city.

The size, location and description of the property on which the installation is to be made must be furnished.

The superintendent of public safety shall have the proposed installation examined by the fire and police authorities and then make a recommendation to city council. If approved council can grant the permit.

No single tank may be over 12,000 gallons capacity. The old ordinance calls for a capacity of 1,000 gallons. However, there are, it was explained, much larger tanks now erected here. Three pumps or storage tanks of 12,000 gallons each can be placed if there is 5,000 square feet of ground.

shrieking the alarm. Guards poured into yard to be met with a wild volley by the escaping prisoners. As the prisoners scrambled into the open, the guards opened fire. Cole was shot down almost at once.

It was reported that two men were captured a short time after the break. The report was not confirmed nor were the men's names learned.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT LOCAL FAIR

Day, and because the racing program has some fast steps carded, there should be a crowd inside the grounds.

Mule Race A Hit
The hit of the Thursday afternoon program, from an entertainment standpoint was the mule race.

Four Jacks and Jennies hitched to sulkeys raced around the track, not with the speed of a Maid, or a Dan Patch but the amusement of the crowd made up for the lack of speed.

Some splendid cattle are seen in the barns of the fair this year. One barn full came here from the New York State Fair held at Syracuse, N. Y. but competing against them are some blue blooded stock that come from Lawrence county and adjoining counties.

Tonight Troop F repeats its rodeo and wild west riding performances. Fresh from the summer camp at Mt. Gretna, both men and mounts are in excellent shape and the trick riding and the thrill riding presented are worth seeing.

This is the last day of the fair. Better get out this afternoon or tonight and see what they have to offer out there.

FORECASTING SCIENTIFIC
(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS.—Weather forecasting is strictly scientific, in so far as instruments, observations, reports and weather charts are concerned. Ray-son Numm, meteorologist in charge of the United States Weather Bureau in St. Louis, said in an address at a recent meeting of the local Intellectual Research Society.

"Weather forecasting is a rational, systematic, scientific business," he said. But mathematical formulas for weather improvements have not been found, as yet, and probably will never be.

Traveling Water Laboratory Here

Many local residents observed a truck, which had much the appearance of a school van passing through the city yesterday with the inscription on the side designating the fact that it belonged to the State Department of Health and was a traveling water laboratory.

The truck traverses various highways throughout the state and picks up samples of water from springs and wells along the road, which are analyzed enroute.

THURSDAY RECEPTION DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR

A most delightful event of Thursday evening was the reception held in the Gospel Tabernacle of the Christian and Missionary Alliance on Pearson street when members of the congregation and friends gathered to greet Misses Sally Botham and Cecelia Lewis, returned missionaries from Africa.

The program, which was given in the auditorium of the church, opened with a song by the congregation after which solos were sung by Mrs. William McKenzie and Mrs. Don Hinkson; duets were given by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jenkins and Mrs. John Wink and Mrs. Avery Rigby. A pleasing reading was given by J. H. Covert and the audience was kept in convulsions of laughter by a demonstration given by Misses Botham and Lewis, in which they prepared for a trip out into the mission field, bringing out only the ludicrous points of course.

At the close of the program Misses Lewis and Botham took their places in the front of the church and the assemblage filed past, each shaking the hands of the missionaries, and then proceeding to the basement of the church, which was beautifully decorated with fall flowers and vining holly and the lights were softly shaded with orange colored crepe paper and as Miss Botham and Miss Lewis came into the room, each dressed in the native costume of an African woman, the crowd sang "Bless the Lord and Make Thee Blessed" to which the missionaries responded with an African hymn sung in the native tongue and in the native manner.

The reception was concluded with light refreshments, served by the members of the Mabel Ryan Bible class.

Her attendant, Miss Catherine Parella, was attired in pink chiffon fashioned with full skirt and long arm bouquet was of pink roses and snapdragons.

Jack DeCarlo served as best man. Following the congratulatory period, a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's mother to approximately a hundred guests.

The bridal table was fittingly decorated with a large wedding cake gracing the center.

AUTUMN

THERE are some signs in which all must believe. For instance, the unmistakable signs of approaching autumn. It may yet beat prosperity around the corner.

The woodlands are a little less green. Football squads are in training even as the baseball season approaches its climax. Straw hats are rapidly disappearing and shop windows are full of fall fashions. For an adult it may take several signs to make an autumn, but youth is convinced by only one—the opening of school.

These periods of transition are the most delightful in the year in most parts of the United States. There are no extremes of weather when summer enters into autumn and winter melts into spring. Things are in neutral then.

Summer's passing is viewed reluctantly by those who delight chiefly in hot weather pastimes, but there are just as many who hail the coming of fall with her rainbow-hued foliage and bracing air. Cool days and and frosty nights are a relief after months of enervating heat and humidity. The philosophical will look upon autumn days as a further respite from the sentence of several months to hard winter.

Autumn has other compensations for the loss of summer days. There is the harvest moon for the romantic, work for the coal miners, and pumpkin pies, fruit and hot cakes and sausage for the epicure.

SURPLUS OF OLD FOLKS

There is a new population problem developing in American cities. It is the increase of old and dependent people on a scale never known before in this country, though familiar in some parts of the old world—Ireland, for example.

One large industrial city, which is probably representative, is shown by the 1930 census to have gained 13 per cent in its population as a whole, but 50 per cent in the number of residents above the "dependency line" of 65 years. There are 50,000 more persons above the "industrial deadline" of 45 years than there were in 1920. Along with this remarkable situation, there are 18,000 fewer children under five than there were 10 years ago.

These facts are explainable. The mortality rate of children has fallen; medical science and a higher level of living comfort saves more of those born; but fewer are born, so there is a comparative loss. Medical science and better living extend the lives of the old, so there is a comparative gain. The great immigration from Europe has stopped.

Thus our cities, and to a smaller extent our rural areas, have more superannuated men and women, and fewer vigorous young and middle-aged producers and earners in proportion to take care of them. The charity problem is going to be more difficult—unless we come somehow into an economic millennium.

SERIOUS YOUTH

Americans are accustomed to foreign visitors drawing comparisons unfavorable to America and Americans, but when one of their own countrymen or countrywomen finds something good abroad that he or she has not discovered at home it comes as a startling novelty. Pride of country makes it difficult for some to believe anyone could be so utterly lacking in patriotism.

Miss Edna Ferber, novelist, is guilty of this form of lese majesty. Returning from abroad she drew a sharp contrast between American and European youth.

"America," she said, "is the only great country that has no youth movement. It is terribly vital that nothing matters to the young men and women of today but wiscracking. The boys and girls, going to college have absolutely no serious discussion. In this country to be serious is to be ridiculous. Any French boy of 18 that you talk to—not a student, necessarily, but a garage mechanic—can talk about reparations or the economic situation in Europe. They are intelligent. They don't think it's 'the bunk.' They have an opinion one way or the other. They think. They have been taught to think."

Miss Ferber, apparently, has been jumping at conclusions or doing some shallow philosophizing. If European youth are more serious than American boys and girls, it might be because Europe has gone through more since 1914 to make it serious. Youth is a product of its times—happy if life is free of care and danger; thoughtful if disaster lurks at every turn in the road.

Didn't it occur to the American novelist that the reason reparations and the European economic situation are discussed "seriously" and "intelligently" by European children is because they are European questions which are discussed everywhere and at all times? The youth of the United States discuss prohibition seriously and intelligently, but that doesn't make them any more serious or intelligent than European boys and girls who cannot discuss prohibition intelligently.

Three Choices From a Little Devil
I Tried and I Tried
But I Couldn't Decide

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A little devil popped up in front of me and shrieked. "Think fast! I'll count up to ten and I'll grant any wish—ANY wish—for yourself that you can think of before I'm through counting. What will you have?"

He started counting "One—two—"

I thought, "How nice it would be to have a million dollars!" With a million dollars I could go places and see things. I could do as I pleased. I would not have to work if I didn't feel like it. (though, of course, I WOULD want to work.) And then I happened to think that the few rich people I know don't seem to be so very happy. They don't even feel secure. Some of them are restless, some are suspicious; none of them do "just as they please." . . . Perhaps I'd better wish for something else.

The little devil was still counting: "Three—four—five—"

Perhaps I'd better wish for happiness—to be happy all the time, no matter what happened. Sometimes, far out of the city, in some little town, you meet a man or woman who has very little, as the world measures possession, and is perfectly happy and serene. . . . It would be nice to be like that. But if you're happy all the time there's not much variety to living. Ups and downs are what make life exciting. After a headache, after a toothache, you feel so much better. . . . Happiness isn't everything, after all, and could I endure to be heartlessly happy when my friends were suffering?

And still the little devil kept counting: "Seven—eight—nine—"

Well, how about wisdom? . . . How about knowing everything that is to be known? How about knowing whether the world is winding up or running down? How about knowing all the mysteries of life and of death, and what's before birth and what comes after the last breath? How about that? . . . But the fun of life is its uncertainty, being about to puzzle and guess and seek out little clues and follow them a little way and then lose them and find others and keep on searching till you solve the last mystery for yourself. . . . No, infallible wisdom wouldn't be much fun. But what WOULD be fun?

The little devil stopped counting. Just as his tongue touched ten, and he gave me a mocking look and said, "Well?" . . . And I lost my precarious temper and flashed out at him: "Oh, go away and let me alone!"

So the little devil shouted "TEN!" and left me with a scream and a bang—and I had my wish! I had wished to be left alone and he'd granted it. I'd told him, in my own way, that I didn't want life on a Silver Platter. . . . I was back where I'd started ten seconds before, and I didn't seem to mind it at all.

SPECIAL FAVORS IN THE HOME.

If you were satisfied with what you deserve wouldn't your home life be happy?

You are permitted to do and say what you please.

Perhaps you are good-natured and happy when everything about the place is just as you like it and there are no complaints about you.

But if every member of your household were responsible for as many disturbing things as you produce about your home what would its atmosphere be?

General turmoil most of the time would describe it.

But certain other members of the home, when they attempt to go on in unrestricted ways, hear a great deal from you, don't they?

Home is supposed to be a place where people can find a natural and peaceful life, but only as long as they do not impose burdens and distasteful duties upon others.

Lines of conduct should not be too closely established.

Little infractions of rules of good conduct should not be too stringent and inelastic.

And no member of the family should feel that he or she is entitled to special favors such as he or she would not be willing to extend to others.

How about it, don't you require much and give little?

I know those little beady eyes. That moment flashed with glee. As he let loose those piercing cries. To mock the pride of me.

Spectacular Golf Victory Gives Ouimet Unique Place

New Champion Who Once Defeated Older Players To Give Youth Unprecedented Supremacy In Game Now Conquers Youthful Field To Reassert Power Of Older Stars

Francis Ouimet's victory in the national amateur golf tournament was a popular one, the "come-back" of a man who had won this same championship 17 years ago appealing to the country's sporting blood. It is also pointed out that, as his early triumph over the older players started youth to the heights of golf, his recent victory gives the honors back to the more seasoned golfer.

"Seventeen years ago as a lad of 21, Francis Ouimet, of Boston, won the national amateur championship in golf," recalls the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE. "Now—at 38—he wins it again by defeating Jack Westland of Chicago by 6 and 3 in a 36-hole match. An interesting coincidence is the fact that he won by precisely the same score with which he triumphed over Jerry Travers in 1914. The Post-Gazette predicts that 'his unprecedented return to championship heights after such a long period will be especially pleasing on account of his sportsmanship and popularity.' It unquestionably will have a stimulating effect upon other golfers of his age, and in the ordinary pursuit of the game we may presently be hearing of other come-backs.

The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE comments that "strangely enough, nearly two decades ago the onslaught by youngsters on what long had been called 'an old man's game' was led by Francis Ouimet, and that today 'times pendulum swung back in a mood of ironic humor to carry Francis Ouimet to victory over a field of aggressive youth.' Recalling that as an amateur he defeated two British veteran professionals and won the national open in 1913 and the next year defeated the veteran Travers for the amateur championship, The Chronicle recounts how 'the subsequent raid of the youngsters swept the old guard from the links. Golf lost its character as 'an old man's game.' The Bobby Jones, Horton Smiths and Johnny Goodmans were great players who walked a course biased for youth by Francis Ouimet. . . . Now, when the youth movement seems to have begun its ebb in broader fields, Ouimet returns as the champion of age."

Referring to Ouimet's career in golf in the interval between the two championships, the HAVRELL EVELING GAZETTE remarks: "Early in his career as a notable figure in American golf, he attained competitive heights that hundreds strive for in vain for a lifetime. Year after year since then he has been properly rated among the country's leading golfers. Never, however, did he climb the heights again until this year. Americans like the athlete who is consistently good if not consistently the best. They like to see a man who has for years been an honor to his game win the honor that came to be bestowed. They like to see a champion come back. For these reasons they are glad Ouimet won excellent prizes, which we heartily endorse."

Declaring that "though 'the Chicago gallery' may have had little applause for the Bostonian it is a popular victory in the golf world," the ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC points out that playing the game at Chicago was not easy. "It records that the winner 'faced a hostile gallery on the last day—Chicagans do not like to see an ex-triumph walk off with the honors in any sport. But Ouimet, unperplexed, was master over the long rout."

The champion of today had to defeat "in five successive matches players who averaged 23 years of age," according to "the GOSHEN DAILY NEWS-TIMES, all of whom were '12 or more years younger than he, and several say that Ouimet had the added handicap of a gallery which war partial to the youngsters. But the veteran showed that experience and the mental poise that come only with years counted for more than youthful enthusiasm and confidence. Ouimet's victory has established the fact that golf is a game for all ages."

As the BALTIMORE SUN puts it, Ouimet has shown that a mere matter of 38 years is no insurmountable handicap. It may be a slender assurance, but at least for a few moments the generation of Ouimet can walk with a firm tread and stand held high. When Jones, the amateur ranker, it seemed, could not compete for his loss, that notion was mistaken. Jones, having taken only the way open for an old hero to recapture the public completely.

"Ouimet knew that, once a victor, he was pushed aside. He usually counted out, but suddenly he was able to overcome the effects of this custom and win," says the COLUMBUS-OHIO STATE JOURNAL, which pictures him as perhaps having "turned back in thought to the sensational victories he won as a youngster. At that time he went over the barrier of youth and defeated the best. He beat the odds against the youthful player, and then, 18 years later, beat the odds against the older player, a double victory, the latter quite as important as the romantic and sensational victory when he was termed the boy wonder. The fact that Francis Ouimet was able to play his best game and win at a time when he was considered through is proof that men can come back."

Commenting on the fact that Ouimet was pushed aside, the ROANOKE TIMES, "He played a great game from start to finish, combining a fighting heart with golfing skill and experience, to triumph over a field of brilliant youngsters. The national amateur championship is in worthy hands."

There are those Law Makers in the Congress of the United States who, in season and out of season, suggest that the Government, not only regulate but actually operate the Railroads, the Mines, the Oil and Steel businesses and in fact every Big Business. These Politicians belong to the ever increasing class of Socialists in America. They would want to take over the person but that is what they are.

If anyone wishes any more proof of the sort of service the people would have under a system of Government Ownership other than that exhibited by Mr. McAdoo in the war time operation of the Railroads, I will respectfully refer that person to the United States Post-office, and I would be operated by the Government without any interference whatsoever.

There is a manufacturing concern at Findlay, Ohio. Its offices occupy a floor of an office building in Findlay. There is the usual mail-box in this building, ending in a large mail-box on the ground floor. This manufacturing company was the postal authorities at Findlay that their mail was entirely too heavy to be carried from this box to the post-office and that the company would thereafter have to transport its mail to the Post-office. The company did so until when its carrier presented its mail at the Post-office, daily stamped and addressed a large mail clerk asked if it was sorted.

What do you mean, sorted? "It is separated into city mail and foreign mail." Have you separated it into mail going into the different States? questioned the servant of the head post-man.

Well, no, was the laconic answer. "If that is the case, we can not receive it," was the weary one's rejoinder.

A Post-office Inspector finally was keen enough to insist that the postmaster and his minions at Findlay take all mail deposited in public mail-boxes in the boxes and carry such mail to the post-office where it might be dispatched to the addressed destination. Yet the time may come when even the orders of the Post-master General may be neglected by the tired civil service employees of the Government.

Mr. Foulke came here in 1896 from Mercer and continued to reside here until about twenty-five years ago, when he located in Greeley, Colorado, where he has been ever since.

While in this city, Mr. Foulke followed his occupation of a carpenter and worked on the building of the Lawrence Savings and Trust Company and other important structures of that period.

For many years since leaving this city, Mr. Foulke has been connected with the Colorado State Teachers College, which is located at Greeley, Colorado, as a member of the college faculty.

ATTORNEYS HOPE TO SECURE KANE'S RELEASE ON BAIL

viciously refused to release Kane on bail, would do so today. Decision in the prior hearings for bail was withheld on the basis of the outcome of the coroner's inquest, and the strong assertion of guilt voiced by Vanderslice was considered a strong deterrent to the possibility of bail.

If refusal is met by the defense today, it will mean that the tall, high strung language teacher, whom prosecution officials charge deliberately drowned his wife when the two were in swimming at Grand View Beach several miles south of here last Friday, will remain a prisoner in the little red jail at Elizabeth City county courthouse here pending the outcome of the preliminary hearing and grand jury investigation. These proceedings alone, according to prosecution counsel, will not be concluded until sometime after October 5. The grand jury convenes on that date, with a crowded docket on hand. If the case goes this far, and indications today were that it would, both sides in the Kane case plan to ask for priority on the docket.

Kane Grows Weary. Kane has grown gaunt and dark circles have shaded his eyes since he was placed in the jail, which his cousin, Francis Fischer, Kane of Philadelphia, condemned as a "veritable black hole of Calcutta on hot days."

Commonwealth Attorney Roland D. Cook considered arguments he advanced against release of the defendant at previous hearings on bail application, which was refused, as still standing. He said he would content himself with the facts in the case at present. He planned simply to ask Judge C. Vernon Sprately to take the coroner's decision into consideration in ruling on the application. He was confident Professor Kane would stay in the little red jail.

Parents of the dead Mrs. Kane, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Graham of Hilltop Village, Newport News, openly announced they were with the prosecution in the Kane case today. Following days of refusal to discuss the matter, or admit whether they believed Kane guilty, the parents declared the coroner's verdict was not unexpected.

Opinions Revealed. They further revealed privately that they knew of the existence of a letter which they interpreted as evidence Kane was "having something to do with another woman," and that they did not believe the relations of Kane and his wife had been happy for some time. This letter, they said, was written two years ago, and was not now in existence.

The prosecution considers its most damaging evidence against the young college professor a letter from a woman who signed the missive "Betty" and with the initials "E. H. D."

New Castle's Best Liked Wall Paper StoreMarriage Ceremony Is Twice Performed

Licensed Here, Wedded In Ohio, And Again Married At Court House

To be married twice by the same minister in two different states was the experience of Mack Johnston and Vashits Dismukes, a colored couple, residing in Campbell, O.

In order to avoid the five-day publishing law effective in Ohio, the couple came to New Castle on September 14 and secured a marriage license. Deputy Margaret Garvin who issued the license, was careful to tell the couple that they would have to be married in Pennsylvania.

Notwithstanding the instructions the couple went to Campbell, O. where they were married by Rev. H. M. C. Reed. Miss Garvin discovered this when the return of the marriage was made by the pastor and wrote Johnston that the marriage was illegal.

This morning the couple came to the court house with Rev. Reed and were again married in the prothonotary's office. It is hoped that the marriage will hold this time. The Pennsylvania law is that couples who take out licenses here must be married in this state.

Salvation Army Evening Services

Members of the Greenville corps band of the Salvation Army were attending the special meetings now being held here by Ensign V. Thomsen, Captain and Mrs. C. Young and Lieutenant E. Miller were in charge. Several selections were played by the band and Mrs. D. Thomas and sister sang a duet, "My Home." Ensign Thomsen assisted on the piano.

The subject of the evening was "What Must I Do to Be Saved" and the captain brought the question home to the audience with force. The meetings will continue this evening when Captain and Mrs. P. Gibson of Meadville will be the guest speakers and tomorrow night it is expected that Adjutant and Mrs. P. Meapham of Pittsburgh will conduct the open air service on the diamond.

One Taken To Pen, Another To Works

W. G. Boone was taken to the Western penitentiary and Clarence Woods to the Allegheny county workhouse this morning by Sheriff Frank N. Johnston. Boone was sentenced for from one to three years on a charge of forgery, and Woods for one year on a charge of driving under the influence of liquor. Woods has been in court before on a similar charge.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Make Tot's School Life Rich, Joyous

Dr. Myers Urges Parents To Watch Child's First Days

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

About 20,000,000 marching feet, a mighty army! They are children on their way to school. Off they go with hope and eagerness. Those who have been to school before, nearly all, go willingly. The summer has been long. For many it has grown tedious. They have been looking forward to school for weeks. So have most of the little children now going to school for the first time. For them it is a great adventure. Except the few who have been tied too close to mother or have heard wrong things about school, the first tapers dash off to school like young colts turned loose in a pasture field. That would be a very interesting book made from the conversation among children on any morning of these first school days. Many know the teacher whom they are to have and the studies which they will pursue; others are wondering now about these matters, building up all sorts of notions about them.

A large number of mothers part with their children for the first time. It is a notable event, attended by considerable emotion by these parents. Most parents of older children welcome the opening of school. They are enjoying the quiet and absence of confusion; the event effects and for most mothers it is a well-deserved relief. But for the school that takes the children for several hours a day for most months of the year there would be many more wrecked nervous systems among parents, and asylums for the insane would be much more crowded.

For the mental and emotional health of the average child, school has been a blessing. It is good for him to be away from home and the home playground for several hours a day. Although some of us have been distressed about a number of school practices which are dangerous to the pupil's mental health, yet if we had to choose between the school as it is and no school thinking only of the family happiness now, we should vote in unison for the school.

But we parents shall hardly be content to look upon the school as a parking place for our children. Certainly we won't when we think. As Wundt has said, however, animals never think, and man does so rarely.

When morning after morning our children go to school, it seldom occurs to us what their going means. We accept it as a matter of fact. We are absorbed in our own tasks at home or in the field or market or office or factory. We are engaged in activities very important; but our children are just going to school. Nevertheless, for them their going has a very definite meaning, just as important for them as what we do is for us. More important, indeed, since in their youthful hopefulness they feel more, no doubt, about what we do than we feel about what we do. They have their hopes and fears, their joys and sorrows; and their troubles often grow to large proportions.

Furthermore, without their knowing it, their going to school has a significance we scarcely comprehend, even occasionally. A long life is ahead of them; they are being prepared for it. They are growing and their school successes and experiences help determine more than we have dreamed, their larger life's successes later. Day by day their destinies are being carved. On the contrary, we hardly have so long to live, and there are not so many possibilities wrapped up in our growth and development.

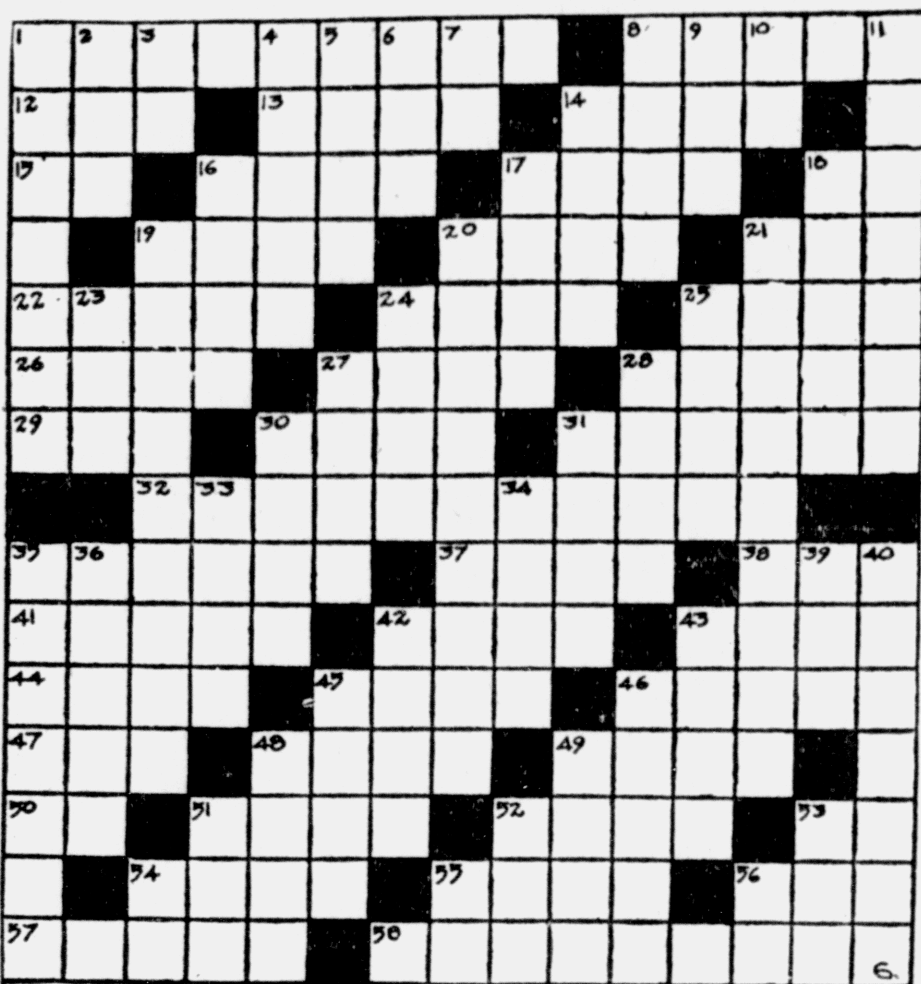

It would do us great good and our children, too, if often, as they trudge off to school and come home from it, we would take the brakes off our imagination and try to get a vision of what our children are going to be, what their school experiences mean to them, and what we might do to make these experiences richer and more joyous.

Farmer Moves Barn 30 Miles To New Site

BERWICK, Pa., Sept. 18.—Neighbors of G. A. Hilley, farmer at Raven Creek, assisted him in moving a barn 30 miles to a new location. Hilley's own barn was destroyed by fire. He purchased a barn on the Creasy farm at Millville, 30 miles away. Eighteen of his neighbors joined him in dismantling the Creasy barn, transporting it to the Hilley farm, and erecting it. Seven trucks were used in transporting the structure.

Allentown Dog Is Hunted As Slayer

Court Trial And Death For Big Shepherd Dog If He Is Guilty Of Killing Rabbits

(International News Service)
ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 18.—One of the most unusual murder trials ever conducted in Pennsylvania looms here, with a dog in the role of defendant.

A little-known and seldom-invoked state law will be called into play to conduct the trial, if City Controller George Zimmerman can locate the defendant. The proceeding was begun when Mrs. Andrew Zimmerman filed with the controller a complaint that the dog had killed thirteen giant rabbits at her home. The rabbits, breeding and show stock, were valued at $3 each. Nearby residents reported that a large shepherd dog had been seen skulking about the Zimmerman home and it is believed the rabbits were killed by the shepherd.

The city controller explained that legislation enacted sometime ago empowers him to sit as a committing magistrate in the case, should the dog be found and identified. The law provides, Zimmerman explained, that an investigation and hearing be held in the best approved court style, with witnesses for defense and prosecution appearing before him.

If the dog is found guilty of killing the rabbits, he may be sentenced to death. Should he escape, the controller said, Mrs. Zimmerman can collect damages from the state bureau of animal industry.

Memorial Crypt For War Heroes To Be Dedicated

Revolutionary War Memorial Crypt Burial Plot Completed At Bethlehem, Pa.

(International News Service)
BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 18.—Bethlehem will dedicate its Revolutionary War memorial crypt burial plot Friday afternoon, according to announcement of the committee in charge of the ceremonies.

The crypt will mark the graves of heroes of the American revolution, several of whom were brought here for treatment by Dr. John M. Otto, a noted physician and surgeon of Colonial times. During the war, a Continental hospital was established at the Moravian Seminary here and many of the ill and wounded of the American forces were cared for there.

At the dedication of the memorial, located on the west side, the campaigns and victories of troops in the New Jersey-Pennsylvania sector will be recalled in a series of patriotic addresses.

BOY FIRES HIS SCHOOL

(International News Service)
LEAKESVILLE, Miss., Sept. 18.—The three R's threatened to interfere with the vacation joys of Hinkle Byrne, 16, so on the eve of its opening he set fire to the Pleasant Hill School. Bloodhounds followed a trail to the Byrne home, and the youth confessed he burned the building because he "didn't like to go to school" according to Sheriff A. J. Byrd.

Aerial Survey Of Gas Fields Will Be Started Soon

Northern Pennsylvania Natural Gas Fields Will Be Mapped And Surveyed

(International News Service)
WELLSBORO, Pa., Sept. 18.—An aerial survey of the northern Pennsylvania natural gas fields will be made, the Lyscoming Natural Gas Corporation announced here, to prepare an accurate property and base map of the natural gas section for use in leasing and other operations. Based on photographs taken from a twenty thousand foot altitude and a ground control survey in the form of primary traverse and triangulation, the survey is expected to show cultural as well as property information.

Final maps of the region, according to officials, will equal government surveys in accuracy and farmers of the region are expected to derive benefit from the exposition of geographical and geologic formations. The survey will include Tioga, Potter, Bradford and parts of Susquehanna, Wyoming, Sullivan and Lycoming counties.

HIS OSTRICH ACT WON

LEEDS, England, Sept. 18.—Frank Sheridan, a 28 year old truck driver of this town, was arrested for breaking a law of the country. Determined to evade a jail sentence Sheridan successfully performed an act of the ostrich. He swallowed a desert spoon, a long chain and a couple of staples. Now he is detained in a hospital.

HOUSE EARLY PULLETS WHEN LAYING STARTS

When the first pullet egg appears in the nest it is a signal that the earliest maturing pullets require housing.

Best results are obtained from pullet flocks that are segregated according to maturity. The smaller, poorly developed birds are likely to do better if left on the range by themselves for several weeks. When too many pullets remain on the range before housing, however, a slump in production plus a slight molt is likely to occur.

Pullets need several days to become accustomed to their new surroundings. Furthermore, they are timid and eat sparingly. The hoppers and water fountains are new to them. Some poultrymen provide hoppers in the laying house for several weeks similar to those the pullets have been accustomed to on the range.

It is practical to change from the growing mash to the laying mash when the birds are housed and before many start to lay. Heavy grain feeding should be continued.

FEED SWINE COOKED POTATOES AND GRAY

Cooked potatoes can be fed successfully to swine provided a good grain ration is used as a supplement.

Potatoes contain a large percentage of water. The dry matter is high in carbohydrates and low in mineral matter and fiber. These facts should be considered in feeding potatoes to hogs.

Experiments show that on an average, 420 pounds of potatoes cooked are equal to 100 pounds of shelled corn if properly balanced with other feeds and fed in the proportion of not more than 4 pounds of potatoes to 1 pound of grain.

After the potatoes are cooked until soft, the surplus water should be discarded as it contains a bitter, poisonous ingredient which is unpalatable and objectionable. Cooking increases the efficiency of the potatoes one-third. If the potatoes have started to sprout, the sprouts should be removed and thrown away.

A good grain mixture to supplement the cooked potatoes consist of 3 parts of shelled corn, 3 parts of ground whole oats, and 2 parts of 60 per cent tankage by weight. One pound of this grain mixture is fed with every four pounds of potatoes.

In addition to the grain mixture it is advisable to feed a mineral mixture either free choice or included in the feed at the rate of 1 or 2 pounds per 100 pounds of grain. A satisfactory mineral mixture consists of equal parts by weight of ground limestone, air-slacked or hydrated lime, superphosphate, charcoal, and salt.

PLANT LATE GARDEN CROPS IN COLDFRAME

Fresh, crisp, tasty vegetables may be grown in the coldframe and harvested long after frost has nipped those left in the garden. Among these crops are spinach, endive, lettuce, parsley, kohlrabi and radishes.

When to plant late crops in the coldframe depends on the growing season of the particular crop. New Zealand spinach, kale, and parsley plants may be taken from the garden with soil attached to the roots and transplanted directly into the coldframe. This should be done before the plants are injured by frost. Practically all crops should be planted in the coldframe before October 1.

Complete directions for making a coldframe are contained in Pennsylvania State College extension circulars 120 and 138, free copies of which may be obtained from the office of the Agricultural Extension Association.

CIRCULAR EXPLAINS HOW TO REMODEL BANK BARN

The United States Department of Agriculture has issued a publication of particular interest to Pennsylvania dairy farmers. It is Circular No. 166, entitled "Suggestions for the Improvement of Old Bank Dairy Barns."

Blood Pressure May Be Reduced

High blood pressure is not only dangerous, but entails suffering which often is needless. But you can get rid of the kidney and bladder weakness, blinding headaches, back breaking pains and torturing nerve tension while reducing pressure.

Ask your druggist for a box of Wildunger Tee, which contains valuable mineral salts from the famous health springs at Wildunger Bad in Germany. The very first box often brings grateful, comforting relief.

A New York doctor while traveling in Germany was so impressed with the results thousands were securing from this great kidney and bladder activator that he brought Wildunger Tee to this country.

Many American doctors now prescribe it and report that its benefits are equally surprising here.

You can get Wildunger Tee at all good drug stores.

While the work of the field survey was done in southeastern Pennsylvania, the information, pictures, and plans included in the circular will prove helpful to farmers in other sections who desire to remodel old buildings or construct new ones, if due allowance is made for changed conditions, says J. The work was undertaken primarily to assist in remodeling to meet present requirements of sanitation and efficiency at the least expense.

E. Smith Plant Gorgeous Display

Night Blooming Cereus Does Itself Proud With 28 Flowers For This Year

M. and Mrs. Edgar Smith, 905 Oak street, greeted persons from all over the city Thursday evening. These persons had come to view the unusual sight of a night blooming cereus which at one time displayed eleven blooms, something which has never been heard of in the New Castle district.

The large plant is thirty years old and has been raised from a small slip by Mrs. Smith. The mother plant having been brought from Mexico. It is now about eight feet high and has seven separate stocks.

Thursday evening as one approached the Smith home, the heavy and fragrant odor of the blooms could be smelled and when one went into the yard there was the plant displayed under a large electric light which showed it to good advantage and the immense white like blossoms were opened widely, showing the intricate center, filled with what resembled straw and at the head was the beautiful white star.

Two of the leaves held two large blossoms and the other blooms were scattered over the plant.

There will be three blooms out on the plant this evening about 9 o'clock and this will finish the blooms for this year, making 28 flowers that have blossomed since July.

In addition to this gorgeous night blooming cereus, the Smiths have a flower garden that is well worth looking at. They specialize in dahlias and have most every variety and color, with some of the plants being eight and nine feet in height.

SEVENTH WARD NEWS

Seventh Ward Road Branch Waits For Heavy Snowfalls

Pennsylvania's state highway maintenance branch at the eastern end of Cherry street, Seventh ward, would no doubt have presented a striking contrast to any who may have had occasion to visit the bustling garage on any of the snowiest mornings of last winter.

A hot sun beat down to push the mercury up high, and for that reason the snow plows and other heavy duty machines that keep roads cleared for the traveler at all times were smuggled back in a corner.

Out front were a number of light trucks, used for routine improvement, work about the county.

Large Force Busy
The office itself had plenty to do, for two half-week shifts of 70 men each operate out of the place. The extra 70 were added by District Superintendent H. W. Lightner a few weeks ago in an effort to distribute employment.

When the cold winds blow and the snow falls, the branch is alert and on its toes to the job of maintaining normal travel on the highways.
No tie-ups will be permitted as long as Mr. Lightner and his men know it, and the stored machinery which awaits its duty call indicates it.

The district office serves the entire district surrounding the Pennsylvania department of highways.

Horchler Cottage Scene Of Outing

Fifty-Eight Of K-J-U Class, Presbyterian Group,
Share In Fun

One of the most enjoyable social affairs to be given by the K-J-U
Bible class of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church was an event of last night at the Horchler cottage at Cottage Grove, along the Neshannock creek at New Willing-ton Junction.

Fifty-eight members and guests motored there to spend the evening, and everyone returned to the Seventh ward satisfied in every particular. There was a delicious dinner and later a game period for the crowd to enjoy.

Tables, attractively decorated with garden flowers, were set up inside the cottage for the feast. There was no rain to mar any of the plans.

Those who handled the serving were Miss Evelyn Marshall, Mrs.
Wald Daugherty, Mrs. Fred Frez,
Mrs. Gilbert Schiek, Mrs. George Horchler and Mrs. Clifford Comstock.

As entertainers the group was fortunate to have Mrs. George Horchler, Clifford Comstock and Dr. F.
W. Guy. All sorts of comic games were played, the enthusiasm of which sped the evening along only too quickly.

The transportation arrangements were made by Miss Margaret Guy and Mrs. Clara Thomas.

The Rev. and Mrs. D. C. Schnebly,
Mrs. William Horchler and Mrs.
Marshall were special guests during the evening.

Observations In 7th Ward

What took the chief attention of Liberty street folk on Thursday afternoon were two khaki-dressed hitch hikers, a young fellow and a girl. With packs of their back and heavy shoes on their feet, the couple wasted no time in passing through the ward. Proceeding in the direction of Beaver Falls, the hikers were soon riding on wheels again before they had tramped very far. But ward folks say it was just two more hikers passing thru—it's nothing new.

Curb lights along Liberty street were washed by a Pennsylvania Power company man yesterday. The globes are kept spotless.

Rumor hath it, although we haven't been able to verify, that one family in the ward has shelved a thousand cans of fruit and vegetables for winter use during the past few weeks.

Headquarters of the state highway department, East Clayton St., where road repair equipment for the local district is housed, takes on a busier aspect day by day. In the storage garage among other things are three new trucks recently purchased for additional work and two trucks that furnish power behind the snow plows that keep local highways free of drifts in the winter months. They're turned up, apparently, and could be placed in use at any time.

Principal Thanks Donors For Help

"Response Most Gratifying," Miss Mitchell Says Of Food Canvass

Acknowledging the interest of Seventh ward residents in the school canvass for fruit, vegetables and other foodstuffs for canning purposes, the work of which was done by teachers, Miss Nannie Mitchell, principal of the Mahoning and Lawrence schools had this to say:

"The response to the requests for donations of fruit, vegetables, sugar and jars has been most gratifying.
Many women have been very generous in giving of their time and service in helping to take care of the fruit."

"Already a goodly supply of fruit and vegetables has been canned or dried and is ready for use this winter."

The foodstuffs will be stored in the Mahoning building and be used to help in needy cases when cold weather comes.

Sparks From New Castle Motor Club

UNIFORM RULES OF THE ROAD FOUND IN ONLY 18 STATES

While all States have some form of rules of the road governing the movement of motor vehicles in only eighteen states are these rules uniform, according to Ralph W. Bolsinger, President of the New Castle Motor Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Bolsinger declared that uniformity in the provisions covering rules of the road, such as speed limits, signs, signals and markers, passing street cars, overtaking and passing other vehicles, etc., will go far to assure an orderly movement of the motor transport.

"Absence of uniformity," he said, "with a large number of contradictory practices in different jurisdictions, results in the utmost confusion, failure to obey regulations, hazards of all kinds and delay in the actual movement of traffic."

"The importance of rules of the road is now apparent in every state, and the advantage of having the basic principles uniform throughout the country should be equally as obvious."

Mr. Bolsinger pointed out that uniform rules of the road are embodied in Act Four of the Uniform Motor Vehicle Code, drafted by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety of which the American Automobile Association is one of the sponsors.

The A. A. A. Club executive listed the eighteen states which have uniform rules of the road as follows: Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Utah, Virginia and Wisconsin.

GET OFF THE EARTH

Long Beach, L. I. City Council passed an ordinance requiring a charge of 25 cents week days, 50 cents Sundays parking fee for use of the City streets. Long Island residents have entered protest and a test case will be tried in the Long Beach Court.

What would you say to a price list such as this one?

One way streets—$1.00 right turn—$2.00, left turns—$8.00 Speed limit

20 miles per hour: 30 miles—30c; 40 miles—40c; 50 miles—50c—pay as you go. Detours at cut rates. Stop streets 5c rebate. Looks as though we might meet legislation along these lines.

THE RADIO

They have a new spark plug incidentally, that is intended to be used on cars equipped with a radio receiver. It takes out the interference without the usual bother of installing suppressors or tampering with the clearance between the points.

THE GREATEST NEED

Men used to pray for daily bread. Now they adopt a modern grace. They very humbly pray, instead, Give me my daily parking space.

THAT VACATION

Back from your vacation—or do you still have yours to take? If you have, or haven't—remember that there are still two fine auto months ahead for week end trips and short vacation rest periods.

SCHOOL

School sessions have started. Remember that when you are driving to go easy on the accelerator, especially when you pass a group of school children. Set a good example. You must remember that they will be the future drivers of the country. Treat them with the consideration that you would want them to extend to your children in later years.

AS IT SHOULD BE

We saw a gold emblem the other day and our heart gave a joyous flutter, as it always does on such occasions, because it means that someone thinks enough of belonging to this great A. A. A. organization of a million members to have secured other members. It's an honest-to-goodness act of friendship to pass along the good word to a car-owning friend; and your friends will be the first one to tell you after they've enrolled.

An infernal machine is any kind of a motor vehicle that ambles along the middle of the road at just about ten miles per hour.

Thirty four States have motor laws in harmony with the Uniform Vehicle Code, or have recently amended their laws to conform with it.

A PEDESTRIAN A. B. C.'s

A—Stands for AUTO so sturdy and strong. Stay out of its path if you want to live long.

B—Is for BRAINS. If a street you must cross, please use your brain or get thrown for a loss. I had the right of way, but the driver thought the same.

C—Stands for CORNER. If traffic lights green, don't try to beat a car, it may mess up your spleen. O.

K. Colonel. I'll make this crossing if it kills me.

BE CAREFUL WHEN TOURING. BE CONSISTENT.

THINGS WE DON'T LIKE

The motorist who is never wrong. Cars parked and edged over the cross walks. Complete disregard for pedestrians.

Washington Street cruising. Beating the lights. Necking in main street traffic. The professional map collector.

WARNING!

School children should be instructed to cross the streets at intersections. In following this course they will be cooperating with the motorists and aid materially in accident prevention work.

The practice of crossing the street between intersections is very dangerous as it is a difficult matter for motorists to guard against children rushing from the side-walk to the street, particularly when they come from behind parked automobiles. All children should be warned against this practice.

First Baptist Men Have Annual Frolic

Unusual Dinner And Program Keeps Men Of Bible Class Entertained Thursday

The fall get-together social of the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church was held last night in the church dining room. It marked the climax of the mysterious 13-17 attendance campaign.

Through the artistic efforts of Owen Fox the men's class room was transformed into a regular Chinese tea room, the burning of incense furthered the imagination as one looked about and saw the buddhas in corners and the Chinese lanterns added a glow that softened the whole effect.

The gorgeous flowers that were used in decorations were from the gardens of Mrs. Sam Weinchenk and Mrs. Johnson Fisher, while the select fruit that was served came from the Bovard and Baldwin farms.

One hundred and ten men sat down to a sumptuous repast of chop suey, fruit and tea, prepared by a member of the class, Henry H. Lee. Men of the class served as waiters—W. G. Davis, Ed McKibben, William Reynolds, Dean McClelland, Albert Klingensmith, Bruce Love and Lewis.

The toastmaster of the evening was Judge Lawrence Hildebrand who, with subtle wit, introduced the features of the program, which included pep singing led by "Red" Williams in his own inimitable way, a radio parody of Lowell Thomas' evening news report by the teacher of the class, George M. Landis; a piano solo followed by a vigorous demand for an encore, by Mont Skidmore; two humorous readings were admirably rendered by Griff Thomas; a mock radio program by "Red" Williams, and the address of the evening by Rev. Rees Williams, pastor of the First Congregational church. Rev. Williams gave a forceful and scholarly message on "The Church and the Modern Mind." Among the guests of the evening were Rev. Rees Williams, Griff Thomas and Ira Ramsey, who brought greetings from the McKinney Bible class of the First Presbyterian church.

Expressions of gratitude were rendered to the program committee, composed of John Owens, Red Williams, Harry Turner and Earl Reebel, and to the serving committee. Henry Lee was called upon to give an analysis of chop suey for the benefit of the members of the class who claim Missouri as their native state.

George Fox, president of the class gave a cordial invitation to the men to return to the class room Sunday morning.

There May be Poison in YOUR Bowels!

STEP out tomorrow morning with the fresh buoyancy and briskness that comes from a clean intestinal tract. Syrup Pepsin—a doctor's prescription for the bowels—will help you do this. This compound of fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients will clean you out thoroughly—without griping, sickening or discomfort.

Poisons absorbed into the system from souring waste in the bowels cause that dull, headachy, sluggish, bilious condition; coat the tongue; foul the breath; sap energy, strength and nerve-force. A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that, gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The great difference it will make in your feelings over night will convince you of its merit.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowel troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the largest selling laxative in drugstores everywhere.

COLONY DRAWS MANY FARMERS

Concessions Of Land Offered By Italy To Attract Farmers

ROME, Sept. 18.—Italy is colonizing her North African possessions by means of offering concessions of land to farmers from the home country on terms calculated to attract them.

The policy has been fairly successful, though much remains to be done in Tripolitania. Progress in this colony is revealed from the figures just issued.

At the end of 1922, there were only 3,612 hectares of land in Tripolitania under cultivation by concessionaires, while at the end of 1930 the figure was 122,031 hectares.

The concessionaires at present number 744 families, composed of 2,814 persons. The colonists in Tripolitania own 744 buildings, apart from cattle sheds, barns, etc. These houses contain 3,182 rooms.

Tripolitania has 6,796 head of cattle, 825 water wells, capable of supplying 5,033 cubic meters of water per hour.

There are also nearly a million olive trees, 11,000,000 vines, over half a million almond trees, and 232,000 mulberry trees.

Park Sleepers Protest Alarm Clock

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 18.—Penn Valley park was a fine place for sweltering citizens to spend the summer nights until some one with a job and an alarm clock moved in, according to this letter to the park board:

"We wish to register a complaint against the new roomer. He has brought to the park an enormous alarm clock, which disturbs our slumber every morning about 4:30 and he and his clock awaken the rest of the sleepers. Kindly have Sergeant Bigus (a park patrolman) look into this and see that our roomer puts a silencer on his clock. We need sleep."

HAVANA, Sept. 18.—Havana drug stores are regulated by law as to what days they may remain open after 6:30 p. m. Every store is permitted to remain open until midnight once each week and to retail goods to the public for 24 hours consecutively once each month.

The store remaining open after midnight will have a bright red electric light burning in front. The doors may be closed and the interior of the shop pitchblack dark, but the light signifies that a clerk is on duty to fill any orders.

Mooring Giant U. S. S. Akron To The Towering Empire State, Experts Say, Is Not Fantastic

By CARL L. TURNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AKRON, O., Sept. 18.—Mooring the greatest of all lighter-than-air craft, the U. S. S. Akron, or any other dirigible, to the mast atop the Empire State Building in New York is not as fantastic as many persons believe, a spokesman for the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, builder of the Akron, revealed to International News Service.

Whether or not the Navy will permit the crews of its dirigibles, the Los Angeles and the Akron, to try that spectacular stunt is entirely another matter. Thus far the Navy has shown a decided disposition against it, offering the building of Empire State little encouragement when they brought up the matter before the mast was erected.

But the mooring of a giant dirigible such as the Akron to the mid-town New York mast is quite within the realm of possibility, Hugh Allen, spokesman of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, said in an interview here.

Several years ago it would have been impossible, said Allen. "Then, a large ground crew was needed to bring a dirigible into the right position to attach itself to a mast."

Recent years have seen many improvements in mooring facilities as well as in the construction and greater safety of the dirigible itself. Large ground crews no longer are necessary in mooring.

"There is a long cable in the mooring cone in the dirigible's nose. There is another similar cable in the top of the mooring mast. As the dirigible approaches the mast the cable in the nose is let down; so is the cable in the mast."

"A very few men on the ground at the foot of the mast can connect the two cables. When this is done, a winch in the mooring mast sets in motion and the connected cables slowly recede within the mast, drawing the dirigible gradually toward the locking device in the top of the mast."

"I wouldn't be at all surprised to hear of a dirigible accomplishing such a feat any day."

Once the Akron or kindred airship was hooked to the mooring mast it would be necessary to attach anchor tion of the federal patent regulations.

In a raid on the headquarters of the ring, federal agents found 6,000 one-gallon cans which were exact duplicates of a type distributed by the makers of a widely-known anti-freeze preparation for use in automobiles. The cans contained water which was colored to imitate the legitimate product.

U. S. Buys Radium To Find Ship Defects

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The research laboratory of the Navy Department has purchased 2-100ths of an ounce of radium to be used in locating defects in steel and other metals which are used in the construction of battleships. It cost the government $30,000. The purchase was made after the recent discovery of serious defects in the stern posts of several new cruisers.

The defects were detected without the use of radium, because the stern posts cracked. The new cruiser Houston has not yet been examined, however, and if no flaw is found under regular inspection, the radium test will be given.

The radium weighs 485 milligrams and has been used by railroads in their testing of steel rails, but this is the first time it has been tried in ship testing.

Radium produces a ray known as "gamma" that is at least ten times as penetrating as the Roentgen Ray. This valuable metal is capable of piercing the heaviest armor plate or any thick sections of steel or other metals, and recording on a photographic plate any otherwise invisible cracks or defects beneath the surface of the metal.

Sale Of Church Property Banned

MADRID, Sept. 18.—A government decree forbidding the sale of church property in Spain was published along with a pastoral letter of criticism from Cardinal Primate Pedro Segura Y Saez, an exile in France.

The decree provides that movable, immovable, royal concessions and benefits of Catholic church orders, institutes and establishments cannot be sold, transferred or aliened.

Notaries are prohibited from authorizing or registering any legal instrument pertaining to sales of church property, commercial agents from carrying out such transactions and Spanish or foreign authorities from authorizing the withdrawal of church stock or funds.

The cardinal's letter declared it "the duty of all Catholics to unite in defense of the church's legitimate interests."

Earring Dates Back To Nebuchadnezzar

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 18.—Gold earrings approximately 2,500 years old and believed to have been worn by the women of Nebuchadnezzar's court have just been received at the Field Museum of Natural History.

The jewelry was excavated from the ruins of the city of Kish, believed to have been the seat of the world's earliest civilization. The excavations were made by the Field Museum-Oxford University joint expedition to Mesopotamia.

The trinkets were found in Babylonian graves belonging to the period of King Nebuchadnezzar who ruled over both Babylon and Kish.

Michigan Reports Ducks As Plentiful

DETROIT, Sept. 18.—Hunters and game wardens anxiously watching the duck marshes along Lake Erie and Lake Huron, report there are more ducks this year than any time in the last 10 or 15 years.

At the three marshes near Monroe, Mich., on Lake Erie, Fred Shineave, deputy state game warden, reports more than 30,000 mallard, teal and pin tail ducks. A third, he estimated are still too young to fly.

Hunters near Alconac, on Lake Huron, reported ducks there were more plentiful than in years.

Sportsmen Of State To Meet

Izaak Walton League Will Convene At Clearfield Next Week

(International News Service)

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Sept. 18.—Clearfield will become the mecca of hundreds of Pennsylvania sportsmen September 21 and 22 when the 1931 state convention of the Izaak Walton League of America will take place here.

Departing from a custom of several years' standing, the state organization this year will meet in the "field" rather than in a metropolitan center. Because of Clearfield's favorable situation in the heart of the Pennsylvania game region, members of the organization will be enabled to study at first hand the problems of reforestation, stream pollution, game and fish propagation and game and fish control.

In selecting Clearfield for the meeting center, members of the organization were cognizant of the fact that Clearfield was perhaps the hub of the game plateau which is augmented by the surrounding counties: Centre, Blair, Clarion, Clinton and Huntingdon.

Delegates to the convention this year are scheduled to spend an active day or two out on the field observing at close range the problems which confront devotees of the reel and rod and the hunters. Many locations in the mountain region will be visited.

A visit to the Kennedy Park game refuge has been scheduled for the visitors. Here, various exhibits of wild life and sporting equipment will be on display and a show of hunting dogs will be held. The delegates will also visit the Clearfield state nursery, the state's largest nursery for growing trees and raising seedlings for reforestation.

Delegates to the convention will also be given the opportunity to inspect hunting camps, areas destroyed by wandering deer herds, areas destroyed by fire, beaver colonies and nurseries.

Governor Gifford Pinchot was expected to be the principal speaker at the banquet which will close the convention sessions.

First White Man To Visit Arctic Indians

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 18.—Cornelius Osgood, 23, assistant curator of anthropology at Peabody museum, Yale university, was the first white man from America to visit the Hareskin Indians in the Arctic Circle and return.

This is revealed in an announcement by the secretary of Yale of the publication of Osgood's adventures in a book called "Steps in the Dark," written by Chicago newspaperman.

Previous to Osgood's trip to the Indians, two missionaries reached the tribe in 1915 and were soon slain. Osgood went up in May, 1928, while a graduate student at University of Chicago. He went to reconstruct the ethnology of the race and returned 15 months later with his work done.

The Hareskins live in the vicinity of Great Bear lake, on the Arctic Circle, and are supposed to have crossed over from Asia by way of Bering Strait. There are 1,000 of them in existence today, and are considered forerunners of the American Indian.

Milton Mayer and John Howe wrote the book in which Osgood's adventures are related.

Operation Upon Chicken Success

Chester, Pa., Man Operates Upon Throat Of "Pet" Chicken Success-fully

(International News Service) CHESTER, Pa. Sept. 18.—If chickens could talk, probably the chief topic for conversation by "Snowball," pet white chicken owned by James Welsh here, would be that general favorite "my operation."

"Snowball" is probably one of the few chickens, in or out of captivity, that can boast of an honest-to-goodness, genuine operation with a scar and all that goes with it.

Evidence of the operation is a scar on the crown of the chicken, testifying to the surgical ability of its owner. For the operation saved the chicken's life.

Household Pet
It seems "Snowball" led a charmed life from the day of hatching. It was one of a brood of six and the only survivor of the half dozen. Attracting notice by its color, the fowl was adopted as a household pet and given the run of the Welsh menage.

Then "Snowball" fell ill of a strange malady. Its feathers began to droop and fall and fears were felt for its life. Members of the family were determined to save its life, if possible, and Welsh, examining the fowl's crown and finding it hard and swollen decided to operate.

With two sons assisting, Welsh made an incision and found in the crown a handful of Japanese beetles, source of the illness.

The operation pronounced a success. The incision was closed with an ordinary sewing needle and white thread. "Snowball" was placed in a special coop to recuperate and given special convalescent care.

Within a few days the convalescence was over and "Snowball" today is as "well as ever."

Baby Needs Additional Vitamin D

Cod Liver Oil Every Day Keeps The Rickets Away

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

It has become the regular custom to give the baby a few drops of cod liver oil every day as an addition to its regular diet. This is to furnish it with plenty of Vitamin D in order to prevent that most serious disease of infancy and childhood—rickets. None of the known vitamins is so poorly distributed among foods as the anti-rickets factor, vitamin D, and for that reason special attention must be directed to see that it is present in the infant's diet.

It was not so long ago that the valuable properties of cod liver oil for this purpose were discovered. Thirty years ago the advertisement of a well known emulsion with the happy fisherman holding the enormous cod over his back was an indication of the popularity of its use. As a spring tonic and a general tonic for tuberculosis it was widely used. But because there was no theoretical basis for its beneficial actions the doctors scoffed.

Then in 1919, McCollum and Simmonds were able to produce the bony changes of rickets by giving a faulty diet to an experimental animal—the rat. The late Dr. John Howland, who taught diseases of children at Johns Hopkins university, found that cod liver oil would cause the bones of these rats to become normal.

From this time the addition of cod liver oil to the infant's diet has been a regular thing.

The strength of the product can be tested out on animals whom rickets has been experimentally produced to see that it is potent. Unless the oil produces the line of healing rickets in the bone on an X-ray plate, it is not good enough to put on the market. Thus the use of cod liver oil in the infant's diet has been put on the most scientific basis.

I recently visited a cod liver oil factory. The process of extracting the oil from the cod liver is most interesting and carried out with great care, cleanliness and ingenuity.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
E. A. K.: "I am troubled with hay fever starting Aug. 15. Tests show it is due to ragweed and cocklebur. I took injections, but believe the cure is worse than the disease. Can you advise me the nearest place to go to get away from it, and how long I should stay?"

Answer: The seashore or the mountains are usually relatively comfortable. Hay fever hangs on until about Oct. 1.

W. E.: "How can X-ray burns on the face, throat and chest be removed?"

Answer: Many treatments are employed—ultra violet light, diathermy and radium, as well as surgical removal.

Mrs. M. K.: "Please tell me if a beverage made from hop-flavored malt has any tonic value. Is it against the law to mix it up with yeast?"

Answer: Yes, it has tonic value. My legal counsel informs me it is not against the law to mix it up with yeast.

Oak Street School Displays Products Of Garden Club

Under the guidance of Miss Mary Martin, Nature Study teacher, the pupils of Oak street school last spring formed their garden club and planted their seed and this week, with everything coming to maturity, the products were brought to the school and Thursday afternoon were displayed to the pupils, the parents and other friends of the school.

As one entered the school and started up the stairs to the second floor, the landing showed the first signs of the flower show. Along the end and in the large windows were displayed part of the fruits of the children's labors. There were 375 entries.

On up the stairs one went and in the top, through the hall of the second floor tables had been arranged, one for each grade and hereon were displayed some of the finest specimens of flowers and vegetables that could be imagined, and the children's beaming faces showed that they were proud of the display they had made.

Outstanding among the flowers was a bouquet of yellow and red cockscomb, of unusual size and beauty and the prize of the show was given to Dorothy Cerecell for the wicker basket of calendulas, which were so skillfully arranged.

Watch Her, Mother—She Needs You

Despondent Young Girls

SHE LOOKS despondent, worn-out and depressed. Young girls budding into womanhood often get wistful. They should be watched!

"I have a headache," they quietly complain. "My back bothers me. . . I guess I'll lie down."

During this "trying time" every young girl needs the helpful benefit of a strengthening medicine like Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Neglect now only invites suffering later on. Pain destroys beauty. That's why so many attractive young women become faded prematurely. The pretty girl of 18 often becomes a languid lady of 25.

When your daughter becomes tired and listless . . . won't you give her Vegetable Compound Tablets . . . just as other mothers do?

The very fact that it's been in use a long, long time, gives women extra confidence. They know it must be good . . . or so many women wouldn't take it.

And how true that is! For our records show that 98 out of every 100 women report benefit.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of either the tablets or the liquid today. Don't postpone the blessed relief this medicine brings.

Justice Restored To Court House At Lancaster, Penna.

Lady With Sword And Scales Is Fixed Up And Replaced On Top Of Court House

(International News Service)
LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 18.—Justice has been partially restored to the Lancaster county courthouse.

This is no reflection on the Lancaster county bench. The Justice referred to is the lady with the sword and scales and this is to record that she has been rescued from complete oblivion and her head given a place of honor in the courthouse.

The figure of Justice was carved in wood above the dome when the building was erected in 1853. There she stood until the beginning of the present century when the courthouse was remodelled and Justice disappeared—from the dome.

Joseph P. Breneman, who made the renovation in 1900, was apparently the only person who remembered the old figure. He tried to preserve it, but only the head was in any state of preservation.

The head was bisected from ear to ear but has been restored with an iron bolt.

Breneman presented it to Judge B. C. Atlee, for preservation in the courthouse or disposition to a historical society. Final disposition has not yet been made and the head rests, appropriately enough, on a bookcase in the judicial offices.

Fall Slogan Is Back To Nature In Dress Colors

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Back to nature is the fall slogan when it comes to the colors the smart dressmakers are choosing this season. Browns, especially the rust shade, and greens are to the fore in nearly every new collection, together with maple-leaf reds, bright yellows and orange tints such as are found in the northern woods after a heavy frost.

Cafe au lait and cocoa-brown are used for several of the smartest evening gowns. One in crepe rosin has a full length velvet coat slit at the center-back almost to the waist and a scarf collar which begins at the back and winds around.

Greens are prominent at every house, especially the bright rich shades in heavy woods. Pale green and citron are nice for evening and there is purple crepe with grape-red flowers at the belt and lovely heliotrope velvet.

Ardance is launching a new electric-blue-green in satin which is very stunning for the blonde or brunette. "Spinach green" is also a popular fall tone.

Black and white will probably be as much worn as ever. Two-color ensembles are prominent. Irene Dana showing an apricot crepe roman with bands of dark brown and another designer definitely slicing one of his models into two halves, with one side of the skirt in black and the other in white and the opposite arrangement for the bodice.

An ambitious wooer of publicity got in touch with one of Mr. Ziegfeld's glorified girls the other day and told her she could put her in the news. She was interested. He called and the scheme was worked out.

The manager of a nearby beach resort, a friend of the p. a.'s, was to choose—through picked judges, of course—an eye-filling lady to be named "Surf-Board Riding Champion of Such-and-Such Beach." He was willing to settle on Miss Mary Pot, and would see to it that the girl got the title.

She did. The said "judges" lined up along the sand and solemnly jerked Mary from the assemblage of bona fide contestants. It was true that Mary had never ridden a surf-board in her life, although she was familiar with the technique of occupying Rolls Royce tonneaus. No matter. Photographers gathered and prepared to take picture of the beautiful Mary in her one-piece suit, coyly posed on a surf-board drawn up on the beach. There were waves for a background. The photographers could make her appear to be whisking along at 45 miles per hour.

As the lenses clicked an official with a board stepped forward and presented Mary with a handsome long cup, taken of her athletic prowess. She blushed and thanked everyone. Next day the papers contained the story, with photos.

And Mary, just before she slipped the cup—borrowed for the occasion—back to the manager of the beach concession, glanced at the inscription. It was: "To Joe Doelge, live-wire salesman and 18-carat friend. From the Star-Eyed Corporation Boys."

Bust of Foch for West Point

To perpetuate the memory of a great soldier in the cradle of great soldiers, this bust of Marshal Foch, Generalissimo of the Allied Armies in the World War, will occupy an honored niche in the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. MY NEW YORK

Central Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The fevered operations of Manhattan press agents are a source of perpetual amusement, admiration and dismay to the observer. The brides of ballyhoo lack humor, but they do not lack ingenuity. No publicity is bad publicity. That is the cardinal presumption; and if clients are portrayed as slightly ridiculous, it makes no difference. The lineage is achieved. The scrapbooks bulge.

This is a characteristic episode, which undoubtedly occurs, with variations, thousands of times a year.

An ambitious wooer of publicity got in touch with one of Mr. Ziegfeld's glorified girls the other day and told her she could put her in the news. She was interested. He called and the scheme was worked out.

Lawrence county was made up out of parts of Mercer, Beaver and Butler counties but the effort to have the country organized was only successful after many years of hard work, during which there were many disappointments and discouragements. The movement to have the county instituted was started as early as 1820 and was finally crowned with success in 1849. The reasons for asking of the establishment of the new county were that New Castle was a town of rapidly growing importance and the converging point of many roads from all parts of the surrounding country. The line between Mercer and Beaver counties as then constituted passed through the then borough of New Castle and worked a hardship on the residents, part of whom had to go to Mercer and others to Beaver. Year after year petitions were presented in the state legislature but had no effect, principally on account of the fact of the determined opposition on the grounds of political reasons. The Wise party urged against it because of the fact that the parts of Mercer and Beaver counties to be in the new county were the strongest. Whig districts of both counties and should the new county be formed, they would lose control of the old counties to the Democrats. But the people of the district constituting the proposed new county refused to give up and they adopted the words of the gallant Lawrence of the British Frigate "Shannon" "Don't Give Up The Ship" and fought on until they accomplished their object and to name their county in honor of the heroic commodore Lawrence, which they did. The legislature finally in March 1849 passed a bill forming the county. Governor William F. Johnston signed the bill and then the work of erecting the new county was started. Tomorrow — Something more about the new county.

There are two ways of finding the length of time a planet may take to make a rotation upon its axis. One is to locate a well observed spot upon its surface, and then watch to see how often that spot returns. To increase the accuracy of the time between two successive returns of the selected marking, it is necessary to repeat the observation many times and then compare the results. After making these observations, the astronomer compares them with the observations of other planets making back for a hundred years or more. This method is to study the motions of the planets in relation to a space reference. Knowing the uniformity and the exactness of the time.

May we suggest that you serve only "better meat" at future meals—the tasty, delicious meat with the savory flavor. And if you make up a luncheon for your child to take along to school daily we invite you to visit our market to purchase your old cuts, fresh fruits and vegetables, dairy products and other delicacies. Traffic Tunnel For Harrisburg

Clearfield and DuBois Engineer Suggests That Tunnel Would Aid Tourists

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—Construction of traffic tunnels under Pennsylvania's state capital, to relieve congestion in streets leading to "The Hill" and to permit tourists and visitors to view the capital environs in their entirety without the discomfort of motor jams, has been suggested by E. W. Hess, an engineer, of Clearfield and DuBois.

Citing the development in Philadelphia, where subway and footway tunnels were carried under the city hall there, Hess claimed there is no insuperable engineering problem to tunneling the formation of the land which would be pierced, he said, indicates that the underlying rock strata is capable of bearing great stress and chief engineering work would be that of insuring safety to the foundations of the statehouse.

Hess' plan contemplates a vehicular tunnel starting at State street, west of the capitol, and running beneath the building to the Memorial Bridge, on the east front. With erection of the contemplated State street bridge across the Susquehanna, Hess believes, the vehicular tunnel would not only facilitate access to the state buildings but would provide an outlet for through motor traffic which now must circle the capital buildings through downtown streets to reach bridges over the river.

He said complaint had been registered against a cesspool. He declared a neighbor who owned a private sewer wanted $100 for the privilege of allowing Johnson to connect with the sewer. He said he could not afford to pay this and would not purchase the property unless he could have a sewer connection. The problem was referred to the city engineer for an investigation.

Local Firms Get Fine Contracts

Are Awarded Work On The Fine New Y. M. C. A. Building Erected At Erie, Pa.

There will be general local interest in the announcement that two business concerns of this city have been awarded excellent contracts in their lines of work at Erie, Pa. The concerns receiving the contracts are Marvin Electric Company and the William M. Clark Company. The former concern has been awarded the electric work contract on the new $250,000 Y. M. C. A. to be erected in Erie, while the latter company has been awarded the heating contract on the same job. The local concerns were the lowest bidders among many for the work that is to be done in their respective lines of business. It will enable the local concerns to keep a considerable number of men busy for some little time.

Geneva Enrolls Record Number

(Special To The News)
BEAVER FALLS, Sept. 18.—Geneva College has broken her record in her opening enrollment this year.

At four o'clock yesterday the number enrolled totalled 504 which is quite a few in excess of the enrollment at the opening of the first semester in any previous year and four above the maximum limit of attendants fixed by the college board of trustees. Of this enrollment approximately 175 are Freshmen, and the remainder upper classmen.

The problem would be solved if only the cost of politics could be transferred adequately to financing poor relief.—The Buffalo Evening News.

Gloria Swanson Reported Wedded

Report Published In Paris Says American Screen Star Wedded Michael Farmer

CHICAGOANS ARE QUITE INTERESTED

(International News Service)
PARIS, Sept. 18.—A report that Gloria Swanson, motion picture star, had been married in August to Michael Farmer, American broker frequently seen in her company in Europe and the United States, was published here.

It was rumored the marriage had taken place in some city "near Chicago."

'Interest Shown

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Considerable interest was stimulated in Gloria Swanson's home town, Chicago, today by a report published in Paris that the motion picture star has entered a fourth marriage.

The rumor that the actress wedded Michael Farmer, a broker, in a city "near Chicago" was regarded with incredulity here. It was pointed out that under Illinois law the marriage would be impossible in this state as Mrs. Swanson's divorce from her last husband, the Marquis Henri De La Falaise De La Courday, has not yet become final.

On account of the muddy track the Rodeo could not be held Thursday afternoon.

The cattle calvacade presented the best in cattle. Time and again applause rolled from the stands as the blooded stock strut by. Those who had stallions, mares, horses, Guernseys, Short Horns and Holsteins were Wagner & Son, Volant, Tom Cooper, New Castle; Mr. Miller, Transfer; Mr. Zeigler, Beaver county; Mr. Fisher, New Castle; Joseph Elder, Volant.

Thiel Safe Is Looted By Thieves

Fifteen Thousand Dollars In Cash, Checks And Notes Taken

GREENVILLE, Sept. 18.—One thousand dollars in money and $14,000 in checks and notes were stolen from the Thiel College business office in the Administration building Wednesday night.

The thieves jimmied open a window and thus gained entrance and the safe was opened by smashing off the combination lock.

Nearly every drawer in the safe was rifled but nothing save the cash and checks, packed in a tin box, was taken. Some silver coins and platinum were ignored.

The robbery was discovered by Frank Reigleman, janitor at the college, early yesterday morning. He notified college authorities, who in turn called the Greenville police department. Chief Barber, after viewing the premises, stated the belief that the work was that of professionals.

Mrs. Benjamin Beisel, 130 East Wallace avenue, received a lot of friends and acquaintances Thursday evening in her home, as she had a night blooming cereus out.

Four Women Are Counting Ballots Cast At Primary

Not Likely That Official Count Will Show Any Material Changes In Returns

Four women have been appointed by the county commissioners as return judges to make the official count of the vote cast at last Tuesday's election. They are Kathryn Cameron, Bernice McClenahan, Bertha Patterson and Margaret Lynch. They began their duties at noon on Friday.

It is not likely that the official count will show any material difference in the returns as already known. The only office for which there seems to be a close contest, so far as the county offices are concerned is that for the Democratic nomination of county commissioners in which W. Grover Stevenson is believed to have 12 votes over T. C. Marshall of Ellwood City.

It is probable also that the judges will find a number of close contests for offices in the different boroughs and townships. The work will consume considerable time as there are so many borough and township offices in addition to those in the city and county.

Considerable additional work is attached on account of names having been written in on the ballots. The count will decide who has been elected county surveyor. There were no candidates on the ballots, so that the result must be determined by the number of names written in on the ballots.

Dysart To Further Investigate Case

Kennelly Tells Council He Was Walking When Injured On Street

Thomas Kennelly today met with councilmen when they convened in the city building and told how he had injured an ankle of its consequences and why he believed he should be paid $106. Council ordered Inspector Dysart to make another investigation and to question all witnesses.

Kennelly claims he was walking in East Washington at Water street when his heel caught in a hole. The hole was there, according to city officials.

The request had been refused because the city had been under the impression that Kennelly had been standing at the position where the hole was.

This changed the complexion of the case and Dysart was ordered to interview witnesses who were present when the accident occurred.

JEALOUSY FIGURES IN QUADRANGLE KILLING

Two face first degree murder trials and one is dead in an unusual love quadrangle at Hackensack, N. J. The state charges that Mrs. Olga Ziegler, 38, mother of two children, conspired with George Flannard, 21, to kill her husband, Otto, prominent silk manufacturer.

Ziegler is said to have escorted Miss Ruth Hering, one of his employees and sweetheart of Flannard, to parties. Police say when Mrs. Ziegler learned that her husband and Miss Hering were planning a trip to Canada, she called Flannard to her home, and plotted the murder with him. Ziegler was shot as he put his car away, while his wife watched from the porch. Police say Flannard confessed to the crime. It was learned today. His subject will be "Main Street in the Bituminous Industry."

DISCHARGED AFTER ADMITTING THEFT

Charles Stanton, colored, arrested in connection with the theft of merchandise of the A. and P. store on West Grant street, which theft he admitted, has been discharged.

Police Recover Stolen Watch

Through the efforts of Officer Thomas Lynch, Robert Woodring of 1602 Highland avenue is today again in possession of his fine twenty one jewel watch, which he missed yesterday while unloading some coal at the Whitaker residence on Highland avenue. He had laid it on the second step of stairs going to the second floor. When he went to get it, the watch was gone. The investigation of Officer Lynch led to the questioning of John Casella 702 South Mill street, according to the police who finally admitted that he had found and hidden the watch. He claims it was in the grass where he found it. He took Officer Lynch to the point on Fairmount avenue where he had hidden the watch expecting to return and get it. He found the watch while doing some work in connection with the delivery of ice. As there was no desire on the part of the owner to prosecute, he was discharged following the recovery of the watch.

Can't Sleep When Free Peaches Are Offered To Needy

George McCreary, Shenango Township, Finds He Must Act As Information Bureau

George McCreary of Shenango township reports that on the morning when Jesse Syling announced that he would give away peaches to the needy he was awakened by someone pounding on his door at daybreak. Answering, he found a man who wanted to know where Syling lived. After giving directions McCreary went back to bed for another snooze, but had no more than touched the sheets when he was awakened by someone pounding on his door a second time.

Looking down the road he saw a long line of automobiles approaching and concluded that there was no use going back to bed. It wasn't long until traffic was jammed up on the road, and reports came back that Syling's peach orchard looked like a county fair. The surprising thing about it was that there were so many fine cars in the procession.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18.—Erie, Altoona and Harrisburg lead all of the other third class cities in Pennsylvania in miles of improved highways according to a survey made by the bureau of municipal affairs of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs and submitted today to Secretary of Internal Affairs Philip H. Dewey.

Asphalt streets predominate in most of the cities while concrete, brick and bituminous paving materials make up the bulk of the remaining types.

Secretary Dewey, in commenting on the paving statistics covering the various cities, pointed out that during 1930 Altoona constructed 6.29 miles of improved highways while Altoona paved 6.19 miles of streets. In Harrisburg, 4.54 miles of streets were improved while Reading increased its mileage of paved thoroughfares by 5.15 miles.

Erie, the largest of the third class cities in Pennsylvania, now has 171-55 miles of improved highways, the largest mileage of any of the cities of the class. Altoona, standing fifth in population among the third class cities, has 144.36 miles of paved highways, while Harrisburg, sixth in population, ranks third with 125.65 miles of improved highways.

During the past year, Harrisburg appropriated $85,000 for street cleaning purposes, the highest amount appropriated in any of the cities. Wilkes-Barre was second with an appropriation of $71,800 and Erie was third, with $68,255. Only two cities, Altoona and Wilkes-Barre, let street cleaning contracts, city forces in all of the other municipalities doing the cleaning.

At the direction of Secretary Dewey, paving statistics have been compiled in a handy form by the bureau of municipal affairs and copies are to be forwarded to officials of all third class cities for their study and use. The completed tabulations show the population of the various cities, area in acres, miles of open highway, miles of improved highways, miles and types of paving materials, appropriation figures and other details.

New Castle is thirteenth on the list with 96.55 miles of legally opened highways and 47.74 miles of improved highways. Sharon is eighteenth with 86.40 miles of legally opened highways and 31.24 miles of improved highways. Butler has 63 miles of legally opened highways and 37.1 miles of improved highways, while Beaver Falls has 39.50 miles of legally opened highways and 13.20 miles of improved highways.

TOWED TO MILES BY SHARKS
(International News Service)
NEW HAVEN, Conn.—A pair of real man-eating sharks floundered into the net of three men who were getting bait in the harbor here, and then towed the three out into Long Island sound for a distance estimated at ten miles before the sharks were killed. The three fishermen were Anthony Dorso, Frank DiMartino, and Patrick DiMichael. The men were photographed with their catch. One shark weighed 300 pounds and the other 210 pounds. It was the first invasion of the harbor by sharks ever recorded.

The Church's "Growing Pains"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty: only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another.—Galatians 5:13.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
So long as the church remained a little group of folk of the same race and country, and with the same social customs, and background, its problems were simple. With its growth in numbers and its spread to other provinces became more complex. Particularly was this the case when it began to number among its members increasing numbers of gentiles who came out of heathendom bearing with them, of necessity, many views foreign to the mind of the mother church at Jerusalem.

Unity—Liberty—Charity.
These were the "growing pains" of the infant church of Christ. They were the very evidence of its life and vitality. The church was outgrowing its swaddling clothes. The demand of this critical period was that those in authority learn to distinguish between essentials and non-essentials, and be big enough in spirit and broad enough in mind to apply the rule "In essentials unity; in non-essentials liberty; in all things charity." The church rose to this height in the great council at Jerusalem in the year 50 A. D. There were those who went out from Jerusalem to Antioch to make trouble and destroy the unity of the church by placing the emphasis where Christ never placed it, viz., upon certain ceremonial non-essentials. With broad-spirited, clear-visioned and warm-hearted statesmanship the council set about correcting the situation, and notified the gentile brethren at Antioch of their conclusions in an encyclical letter breathing the finest spirit of fraternity: "Forasmuch as we have heard that certain who went out from us have troubled you with words, subverting your souls; to whom we gave no commandment: it seemed good unto us, having come to one accord, to choose out men and send them unto you with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, men who have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. . . . For it seemed good to the Holy Spirit, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things. That ye abstain from things sacrificed to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication; from which if ye keep yourselves, it shall be well with you. Fare ye well." In other words, they were to live decently and respect the consciences of their brethren.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. Sept. 18.—Failure of wives to reduce expenditures in conformity to reduced incomes, unwise advice by parents, the "triangles" and the mother-in-law problems were named by Judge Vivian Frank Gable, of Domestic Relations Division of Municipal Court, as prime causes of marital discord. At the end of his six months' service in Domestic Relations Court, Judge Gable revealed the impressions gained as he presided over more than 5,000 cases of unhappy family relations.

Mothers and fathers, through misguided advice, are influencing wives and husbands to separate when some good old-fashioned common sense would keep them together," he said.

"If wives of husbands whose incomes have been reduced would realize we are living in strained industrial conditions they would adjust their spendings to conform to the husbands' reduced earnings."

"It is nonsense to blame the much-abused prohibition amendment as the principal source of family breakups," Judge Gable said. "Actually, our court has a greatly reduced number of cases traceable to liquor than it had 25 years ago."

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Horses have become so uncommon in Chicago that only one of the city's ten remaining blacksmith's shops is able to keep as many as two full time employees.

A recent survey showed that the combined working force of all the horse-shoeing establishments in the Chicago paid only $60,933 in wages to its horseshoers and harness makers in 1930, according to income tax reports with the "smithys" taking in $48,764.

Newest Airplane Speed Record Indication of Future Wonders

Lieutenant G. H. Stainforth's 388 Miles an Hour, if Maintained, Would Take Him From New York to Los Angeles in Six and a Half Hours. Five Hundred - Mile - an - Hour Velocity in Few Years Predicted.

The striving after speed and more speed that is a feature of our modern world has received added impetus by the recent feat of Lieutenant G. H. Stainforth, member of the British Schneider Cup team, who attained a speed of 388 miles an hour following the contest for that trophy. Such a speed, if maintained, would make a transcontinental flight in 6½ hours possible, as against the present record of Major James Doolittle of 11 hours 16 minutes. But such experts as Major Doolittle and Captain Frank Hawks refuse to accept the new record as the ultimate in airplane speed. Major Doolittle asserts that there is no limit to the velocity that may be obtained in the air, and Captain Hawks confidently predicts that in a few years 500 miles an hour will not be thought wonderful.

Senate's Two Blind Men

Thomas P. Gore (left), Democrat, of Oklahoma, and Thomas D. Schall, Progressive Republican, of Minnesota, the two blind members of the United States Senate, are shown helping each other down the steps of the National Capitol in Washington, D. C. Senator Gore is in his third term, while the Minnesota solon is entering his second in his third term, while the Minnesota solon is entering his second term after serving ten years in the House. While the blind lawmakers sit on opposite sides of the Senate, they are often seen walking together. This is the first time two sightless men have been members of the Senate at the same time.

Sues Aimee's Mate

Any discordant note now heard in David L. Hutton's baritone warbling probably may be safely laid to Myrtle St. Pierre (above), of Los Angeles, who has filed a $100,000 heart-balm suit against the new and third husband of Aimee Semple McPherson, famous evangelist. Hutton, who is Aimee's voice instructor and sings in her, Angelus Temple, is alleged to have betrayed Miss St. Pierre.

Young Men Saved from Sirens—Price $100,000

Teacher Suing Society Matron for That Remuneration Says She Acted as "Moral Pilot" for $200,000,000 Heir

Claiming to have rescued Huntington Hartford, 19-year-old heir to about $200,000,000, from the clutches of a Broadway siren, Miss Mildred King, of the Boston Conservatory of Music, is suing the heir's mother, Mrs. Henrietta Hartford, for $100,000 as a remuneration for leading the young man from the primrose path. Miss King claims she was lured by Mrs. Hartford to steer her son away from questionable associates and induce him to take more interest in young people of his own social stratum and financial position. Mrs. Hartford, widow of the A. & P. chain stores magnate and prominent in Newport, R. I., society, denies alleged contract and all Newport waits forthcoming suit.

May Not Be Shot

Although he has chosen to die facing the firing squad, Delbert Green of Salt Lake City, Utah, may yet cheat the death sentence, meted out to him. An insanity plea has gained him a new trial on the charge of slaying his uncle, his wife, Gladys, and his mother-in-law, Lola Green, following a family quarrel. When Green first was sentenced he was given his choice of death, facing the firing squad or being hanged, and he chose the former.

DETROIT READY FOR LEGIONNAIRES

Queen of Ether

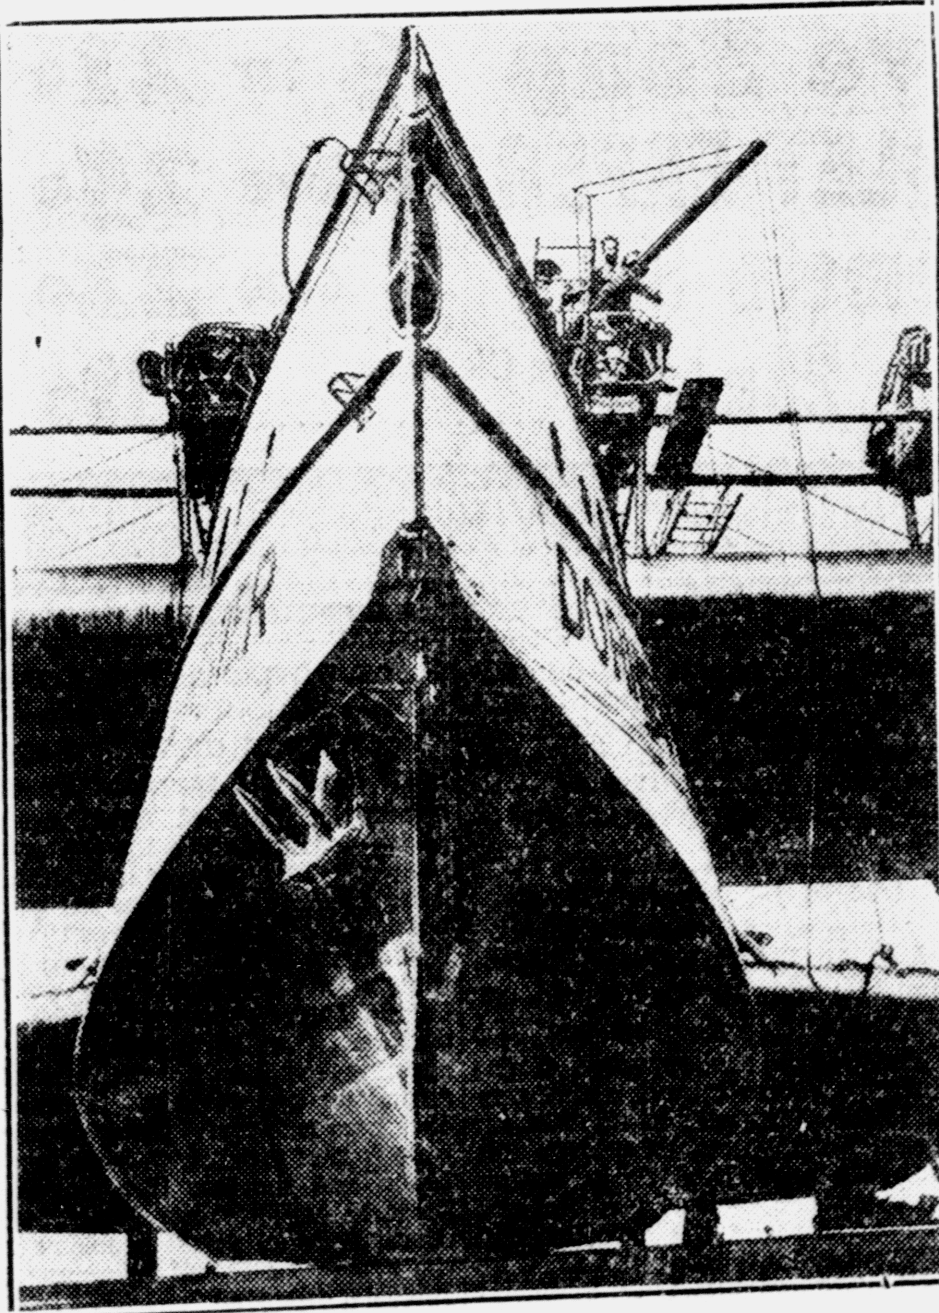

Stand by, everybody, for America's most beautiful radio artist and official queen of ether waves. She's none other than Harriet Lee, chic, blond contralto, whose voice you may have heard from station WABC, New York. We're all glad to see you in print, Harriet, but how great it will be when we can bring you, almost in person, into our homes via television. Oh, boy!

Champions Past and Present

Aged Woman Climbs

Mrs. M. L. Case One of five persons who successfully climbed Stone mountain, Georgia's great boulder, recently, was Mrs. M. L. Case of Atlanta, 78 years old. Mrs. Case wagered relatives that she could perform the feat. She believes in plenty of exercise and admits never being seriously ill.

C. Russell Taggart, American Consul to Honduras (inset) was slightly injured. Map shows the area swept by the storm from Belize across the Caribbean to Porto Rico where it also did a considerable amount of damage.

Austria's "Hitler"

Austria's "Adolf Hitler," Prince Rudiger Von Starhemberg, is a man of mystery to his intimates. As minister of interior, he recently sought to advance the Fascist cause by rescinding the order exiling his comrades in arms.

A Little Marital Harmony

Harmonizing to the tune of marital bliss are Mr. and Mrs. David L. Hutton, pictured at the organ of Angelus Temple, Los Angeles. Maybe you know the bride better by the name of Aimee Semple McPherson, famous evangelist and pastor of the Temple, where the third and new husband, Hutton, has been officiating as her voice instructor and leading baritone of the Temple's choir. Aimee and her 250-pound hubby were married dramatically in an airplane over Yuma, Ariz.

Denounces Son

Wilko Drenth, God-fearing Dutch immigrant farmer of Iowa, is shown as he identified a newspaper picture of his son, Harm Drenth, now facing charges of being a modern Bluebeard in slaying two women and three children in Clarksburg, W. Va., under the alias of Harry F. Powers. The elder Drenth denounced his son for his alleged bloody crimes after positively identifying pictures of "Powers" as his son Harm.

When U. S. "Hurricane" Struck

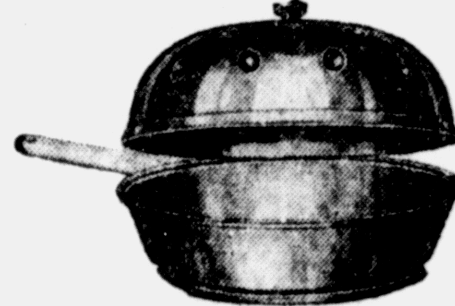

An American form of "hurricane" smote John Miles (left), of the Burlington polo team of the Argentine, when he came in for a violent bumping from Captain C. T. L. (Pato) Roark of the U. S. "Hurricanes" during a strenuous match played at Meadowbrook, L. I. The Argentine and American players collided at the sideboards during the International Open Polo championships, the U. Musical Art Awaits Genius Says Damrosch

(International News Service)
NEW YORK Sept. 18.—Musical art is asleep. But it will not sleep for long. It awaits a messiah, genius, to reawaken fertility in musical composition.

In the meanwhile we have the masters. Beethoven, Haydn, Mozart and they are quite sufficient.
These opinions are expressed by the musical authority Walter Dam-rosch, dean of American symphony conductors, who has returned here from Hollywood where he conducted programs in the Hollywood bowl.

"I am not a pessimist in viewing the future of music," Damrosch said.
"But right now we are going through one of those eras which is not productive of great art."

"We do not have any great composers at the present time. They are to come."

"People do not find modern music satisfactory. It is based upon dis-sonance, and the ear is not accustomed to it; probably never will be.
The older and more beautiful music is based upon diatonic forms, which were used by the masters."

"I sympathize with young composers who are struggling for new forms of expression, but to discover them requires genius. They would do better to confine themselves to the older techniques. Such composers as Beethoven found new forms, but there were giants in those days."

"True art always flows from the emotions. Modern music finds its course in nervous excitement; it does not come from or appeal to the heart."

"The noted conductor does not believe machinery and modern social conditions are responsible for the lull in art."

"Art moves in cycles," he said, "it comes from the soul, the human heart will find expression in spite of all barriers."

Pastor Quotes Bible In Pajama Battle

WEYMOUTH, Dorset, Eng., Sept.
18.—quotations from Deuteronomy are being used by the Rev. P. E.
Coryton, Vicar of St. John's in his public protests made against women wearing beach pajamas.

The local church is only a few yards from the beach where pajamas are worn by large numbers of visiting women. The wearing of beach pajamas has been prohibited in Gurnsey.

Speaking from the pulpit the Rev.
Coryton declared that immodest apparel meant a contaminated society.
He ended his denunciation by quoting Deuteronomy: "The woman shall not wear that which pertaineth unto a man, neither shall a man put on a woman's garment; for all that do so are abomination unto the Lord thy God."

Typhoid Fever Causes Death

No Danger Of Epidemic, County Medical Director
Harper States

Although Mike Frenzel, aged 38, of Taylor township, died in the New Castle hospital last night of typhoid fever and complications, there is no danger of an epidemic, County Medical Director H. C. Harper stated today.

"Three members of the family were stricken with the disease, the other two having recovered. The infection seemed to have been confined to the family, and no trace of contamination was found in the neighborhood."

City Authorizes Payments Made

Council met today in the city building and authorized payment of $20 each to A. W. Vaughn and L. A.
Haug for examining the building in South Apple Way, owned by Morris Newmark. The investigators reported today that the building is unsafe, in their opinion. A public hearing to be held for the purpose of taking testimony is to be held October 2. If it is decided by council the building is unsafe it will be ordered removed.

Fifty three dollars was also authorized paid to Vaughn for matters connected with the Hodge property, Neshannock avenue, Peter Punio property East Washington street and one half day's appearance in court.

Scotch Singers At People's Mission

An unusually interesting service has been planned for Sunday evening at 7:30 in the People's Mission, when Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker and family, Scotch singers, of Cleveland, O., and a group of speakers will be in charge of the program.

There will be a musical program in addition to the several short addresses.

ON MASTODON'S TRAIL

(International News Service)
CLARINDA, Ia., Sept. 18.—Further investigation is to be made of the skeleton of a huge mastodon, discovered on a creek bank just over the Missouri state line south of here as soon as the creek waters recede sufficiently. Three huge teeth weighing more than a pound each, and an immense ankle bone were unearthed by Wyatt Huston, student in the medical school of Northwestern University, and this led to the discovery of the huge skeleton.

Farm Ills Their Problem

The ever present problem occasioned by the economic ills of the American farmer is receiving the attention of this trio of agricultural leaders meeting in Chicago. James C. Stone (center), chairman of the National Grange,
reau, head the three greatest agencies working for the farmers' relief.
rumors of agrarian projects for "easy money," similar to the cry for it in 1879, 1892 and 1896, have been heard at the conference.

as a guest of Muriel Lester, world famous welfare worker, while attending the second India round-table conference in the British capital.

ment house and is in strict keeping with Gandhi's vows of poverty while conferring with British leaders.

Moore To Resurface Two Thoroughfares

Hutchman And Division Streets To Be Resurfaced
By Moore

Councilman W. Stanley Treser today stated that as the result of Commissioner Harry Moore's experiment in resurfacing the upper portion of Neshannock avenue, he would have
Moore and employes resurface Hutchman street, commonly known as Hutchison street and also Division street.

City officials believe the resurfacing of upper Neshannock avenue will prove to be a very good job. The new projects will start next week.

Will Replace Poles On Laurel Boulevard

Seventeen poles in Laurel boulevard between Highland and Delaware avenues are to be replaced by long leaf yellow pine poles, according to councilman action today in the city building.

A request to replace the poles was made by the Pennsylvania Power company. Municipal Electrician George Nickum approved the request and recommended to councilmen that they also approve the replacements. The recommendation was adopted.

Sometimes ago Louis Round, vice president of the company stated the Pennsylvania Power company would improve the appearance of the recently paved boulevard.

Roadhouse Owner Suffers Wounds; Gunmen Aroused

Roadhouse Owner Pays For Bootleg Liquor With Worthless Checks And Is "Put On Spot"

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18.—Nick Spano, roadhouse proprietor at Imperial, near here, was mowed down by 60 leaden slugs from a sawed-off machine gun because he attempted to pay for bootleg whiskey with worthless checks, police revealed today.

According to County Detective Frank Ritz, Spano already was "put on the spot" two weeks ago when an attempt was made to bomb his roadhouse. He was being sought by police for obtaining money under false pretense.

Spano had been arrested on liquor and white slavery charges and at present was free under $1,000 bond in a liquor case.

The roadhouse proprietor was in a critical condition at Mercy hospital this afternoon.

Objection Made To Women Announcers

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Because the bulk of the letters addressed to the Italian radio stations has consisted of love letters to the charming-voiced women announcers, the authorities have decided to dispense with female announcers altogether, according to the "Wireless World."

ence received at the stations have been burning love missives addressed to the "speakers," the journal said.

The London "Evening Star," in an editorial commenting on the reported decision, said:

"It seems a harsh and drastic cure for a simple and not very grave complaint. A simpler solution would have been to burn the letters. Surely it is no offense for a lady to provide more revenue for the postal department."

Lawyers Favor Amendment Of Anti-Trust Law

American Bar Association In Convention Recommends Change In Laws

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, Sept. 18.—The American Bar association today voted approval of amendment of antitrust laws in officially accepting the report of its committee recommending such action.

A resolution was also adopted by the convention proposing that federal legislation be enacted authorizing the regulation of motor vehicles operating in interstate commerce as common carriers of passengers.

The convention also reaffirmed its position in favor of the United States participating in the league court.

Women Powdered Back In 3,200 B. C.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Woman has not changed since the day she was born.
She has ever been a "grande co-quette," "faute" and powder were part and parcel of her pretty face as early as 3,200 B.C. according to
M. L. Legrain, art student.

In the recent "Gazette des Beaux Arts," he describes with minute detail the manner in which Queen Shou-Bad of Ur put on her make-up. Excavations recently made in these parts reveal the fact that this worthy personage made use of a very special turquoise-blue paste for her cheeks.

All the ladies-in-waiting had their little powder-compacts even in those early days, usually made of little common carriers of passengers.

shops one could find "refills."

THANK YOU

The heat of Political contest having subsided and the Republicans of Lawrence county having determined, in the manner provided by law, who the standard bearers shall be at the coming election in November, I want to publicly express my sincere appreciation for the efforts put forth by many friends resulting in my nomination for County Commissioner.

It is gratifying to know that my record in office has met with the approval of the Republicans of this county. I attribute my success largely to the loyalty and untiring efforts of my supporters.

I would be remiss in my duty if I failed to commend my opponents for their part in conducting a fair, clean, and manly contest for the nomination.

ELLWOOD HIGH OPENS SEASON ON SATURDAY ON LINCOLN GRIDIRON

Union High To Be First Opponent—Predict Large Crowd At Game

Visitors Coming With Plucky Team That Forecasts Good Game

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 18.—Despite several crippling injuries to his line-up Coach Bob Ingle feels that his Ellwood High gridirons are set to meet Union Township in the opening football game of the season, on Lincoln field Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock D. S. T.

A great crowd is expected to attend the game and watch King Football inaugurate his season here. With practically a veteran line back and two veteran backfield men and a wonderful crop of reserves, Ellwood sports fans have a reason to be a little optimistic concerning the grid teams possibilities this season.

Although feeling that the local boys will defeat Union high Coach Ingle is leaving nothing to chance. All members of the squad report daily for the practice sessions and are put through the usual routine including a light scrimmage. The squad has been working out now for three weeks and has developed a dangerous offensive and an aerial attack that will have to be closely watched.

Forward Pass Defense

Thursday evening Coach Ingle spent the greater part of his time formulating a pass defense that proved to be effective. The locals hope to stop any aerial attack. The Ellwood forward wall will average quite heavy and the backfields will be light.

There is some interesting competition going on for positions on the local lineup. The right tackle position which is open as yet is being desired by three boys. Neither has been in the position long when the other would step. Pete Maletta, Tom McKim and Paul Pratt are the boys forming the interesting competition. The latter seems to be in the lead now as he will start in the line-up Saturday. Due to an injury to Sam Shadone, Tom McKim will play guard on Saturday. The local team appears to have a nice lot of crimples on hand. Shadone is nursing a sprained ankle, Neff, Vogt, and McCloskey have bad knees and Scedgi is being bothered with boils.

The boys were put through some hard drills this week including three scrimmages. Signal drills and calisthenics will take up the greater part of today's practice session. Later in the evening a skull drill will be held in the school.

Union Is Light

The Union High team will be exceptionally light this year and will lack veteran material and experience. Coach Morgan Boyd hopes to off-set the Ellwoodians weight by unleashing a fast offensive attack. Despite inexperience and lack of weight the visitors intend to give the Englemans a stiff battle.

The probable line-up for Saturday's game is announced as follows:

This will be played off Saturday and probably another game for the championship later if Wurtemburg wins. At any rate a great crowd is expected to witness the contest.

Large Audience Attends Tent Meeting

Williams, evangelistic party of Erie in charge. The 7 o'clock service for the sick with Dr. Williams, the young ladies with Mrs. Williams, the young men with Mr. MacMurray and the boys and girls with Maring Swart are being well attended. Rev. Baker offered prayer.

Dr. Williams used as his subject "A Leper Until Death" taking 11 Kings 15:5, as his text. He said in part "Uzziah the Kink was a leper until the day of his death."

Dr. Williams will speak tonight on "High Toned Sinners." The party with pastor Matland was at the Franklin Junior high school and gave a program of music yesterday and today, which was greatly enjoyed by the faculty and student body.

Early Military Operations In The West
5. The Arikara Village

Guided by his Sioux allies, Colonel Leavenworth came to the fortified Arikara village and threw a cordon of troopers and Indians around the place so that none of the hostiles could escape.

Hopeful of forcing the hostiles to submit peaceably and thus avoid heavy loss of life on both sides, Leavenworth resorted to siege tactics; much to the disgust of the Sioux, who were spoiling for a fight.

Thirsting for blood, the Sioux warriors whetted their knives in anticipation of the scalps they would take when the village was captured.

(Copyright, 1931, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

Growing restless, the Sioux chiefs urged Leavenworth to rush the Arikaras at once, but the colonel, seeing that his savage allies were intent on wanton butchery, refused to give orders for an immediate assault.

Hoover Requests Figures On Beer

President Hoover Asks Federal Employees Supply Him With Facts On Beer Revenue

IS BEING URGED TO MODIFY LAW

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent (Copyright, 1937, by International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Indications were forthcoming today that President Hoover is giving some thought, at least, to the appeals that are flooding the White House for the return of 3 per cent beer as a measure of economic relief during this period of depression.

Pressure upon Mr. Hoover to alter his long-drawn-out policy to the extent of recommending beer has been persistent and steadily increasing in volume for several months. Bankers, industrialists, labor leaders and business men, some of whom are numbered among his most valued confidants, have urged him toward a modification policy. They have emphasized the economic aspects of it, the employment it could give idle workers and the revenue it would bring into the federal treasury, rather than the prohibition side of it.

Figures Are Sought
Today it was learned, however, that the White House has called upon the census bureau for figures bearing upon the employment aspects of the brewing business, and upon the treasury department for statistics showing the amount of revenue that accrued to the government in the days before prohibition.

These figures show that in 1914, when about half of the states were dry, approximately 75,000 men were actually employed in the manufacture of beer. In 1919, due to the spread of prohibition and the closing of breweries in states voting dry, the number of employees had shrunk to 42,000 and in 1929 after nine years of prohibition, but 6,500 men were employed in the breweries manufacturing near beer.

Those who have been stressing the employment aspects of the return of beer contend, however, that the brewing itself accounts for but a fraction of the employment that would be afforded by the return of the beverage. The census figures supplied the White House account for only those actually employed in the manufacture, and do not take into account the transportation workers, barrel, bottle and cap workers, and allied classes of labor employed in its distribution.

Would Employ Many
The American Federation of Labor estimates that more than 1,500,000 workers would be given employment by the return of beer.

On the revenue side, the treasury figures show that in 1914, the federal government derived $67,081,512 from taxes on beer and ale, and that in 1919, despite the spread of prohibition through various states, this revenue was increased to $125,727,500.

The revenue from distilled liquors, I. E. "hard" liquors for the same years was $159,000,000 in 1914 and $443,839,500 in 1919.

On the basis of these figures, the advocates of "beer for revenue" are inclined to claim justification for their prediction that a return of beer at this time could be made to produce a revenue in excess of $500,000,000 a year.

The purpose of the government bureau for the statistics is, of course, unrequited. Whether Mr. Hoover merely desired to examine the figures to obtain possible refutation of some of the claims that have been advanced to him in favor of the return of beer, or whether he wanted them for serious study, has not been disclosed.

Engineer Starts Evaluation Work

Rev Hurselman Of Cleveland
Begins Task Of Appraising Gas Property

GROVE CITY, Sept. 18.—With the arrival of Roy Hurselman, evaluation engineer of Cleveland, to start the appraisal of the property of the Union Heat and Light Company the case of the gas consumers against this company is fairly under way.

Hurselman brings with him a corps of assistants for this work. He has been very successful in other communities in obtaining reductions in price of gas.

The protests filed with the Public Service Commission at Harrisburg will ask for discontinuance of the service charge of 60 cents a month and reduction of gas rates.

Orders have been placed for 15 cans containing on an average of 1000 fish of fingerling size.

The same number of cans of bluegills, 5 of cat fish and 20 of perch will be dumped at the same time.

It is said by committee members that the fishing will run late into the fall season without a doubt.

PLAN FOR WINTER

Register 211 In Freshman Class At Westminster

All Records In College History
Are Eclipsed By Attendance This Year

(Special To The News.)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—Two hundred and eleven freshmen had registered at Westminster college by noon Thursday, and a number of others whose reservation fees have been paid were expected before Monday. This is the largest first-year class in the history of the college.

The total enrollment at noon Thursday was: Freshmen 211, sophomores 92, juniors 85, seniors 84, or a total of 472. A number of upper classmen have written in asking permission to register on Saturday or Monday, and later registration permission has been granted in a number of cases.

This means that the total enrollment for the first semester will probably be around 500 not counting the Saturday graduate course and the special music course enrollments. The total for extension, music and college will no doubt be about 530.

All freshmen were yesterday given the Carnegie Foundation psychological test. This test is required of all entering students at Westminster and is the basis for study of individual needs of the students.

The registration of students continued Friday and will continue on Saturday. Saturday morning at 10 o'clock teachers seeking graduate credits in education will be registered for the semester. Professor J. A. Shott announces.

Health Officer Submit Milk Report

Dr. William L. Steen, city health officer reported milk inspection activities for the month of August to city council in council session today at the municipal building.

In his report he said: "Many people do not understand the meaning of the number of bacteria in milk. It is the way we measure the amount of dirt there is in the milk. Bacteria live and grow on the small particle of dirt and we cannot measure the dirt but we can count the bacteria."

"Good clean milk should contain less than 25,000 bacteria per c. c. Milk that contains more than 100,000 bacteria is classed as insanitary and unwholesome. Its sale is prohibited here."

Steen's report will then show the results of the analysis. The dealer's names are arranged alphabetically. The report to be submitted follows:

To Avoid Grease Scum on Glassware

BY MARY LEE WORK

An easier way to do dishes and 2 other hard jobs. Try it yourself and see

Most women are troubled with a cloudy, greasy film on dishes and glassware no matter how carefully they wash them.

You can avoid this entirely with a preparation called Climalene—used according to the directions below. It's the same preparation that smart shops use to make the china and glassware you see on display shine and sparkle so marvelously. And in addition, it cuts dishwashing time in half and keeps one's hands lovely.

It makes two other hard jobs easier too—family washing and cleaning silver. You can get a package for 10 cents (12-oz. package) at any grocery store.

Women who use it save themselves hours of needless work. You too, can find time to enjoy life—shop, go to the movies, do many of the things you now think only a woman with servants can do.

To Make Dishes Sparkle Like Jewels

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to a dishpan of water, use only 1/4 the amount of soap you now use. It instantly cuts the grease from dishes and cooking utensils, makes glassware sparkle and china gleam. The Climalene-softened water, plus certain bland cleansing agents, cuts your dishwashing time 1/2 or more—saves 1/2 more the soap you now use.

To Avoid Faded Gray Washings

Use 2 tablespoons of Climalene, and 1/4 the usual amount of soap. Clothes emerge soft, spotless, utterly without fading. For soap fade and soap cut are ended this way. In recent tests men's blue shirts were washed 75 times without noticeable fade; sheerest French hosiery 100 times or more—to prove the blandness of this way.

To Clean Silver Without Rubbing

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to 2 quarts of water in an aluminum pan. Immerse the silver—bring it to a boil. Then rinse silver, and wipe dry. That is all. All signs of tarnish disappear. Even the most intricate and highly embossed silver patterns are perfectly cleaned.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly takes all the harshness out of Lake water, medium hard water, and hard water. Makes it soft and gentle as rain water. So soft it does the work with 1/4 the soap you now use. At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly dissolves all grease, dirt and grime, and thus cuts your working time 1/2 or more, in washing, cleaning and in the dishpan.

Say Wheat Price May Benefit By Cutting Acreage

(International News Service)
TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 18.—The steady decline in the price of wheat during the summer may have its redeeming characteristics after all.

That is the opinion of farm experts and agriculture specialists over the state.

The depression may force a sharp reduction in wheat acreage, they say, a reduction which the persuasions and warnings of economists and farm leaders have failed to bring about.

In the past, when it seemed that the farmers were about to agree to a retrenchment and a large percentage of the wheat growers seemingly would adopt the attitude:

"The acreage will be smaller; the price will be higher. Now is the time to extend my acreage and cash in."

The result would be a general increase in wheat acreage and the surplus of grain, instead of being reduced, would continue to mount, and as the surplus increased the price decreased.

With wheat selling in many places almost as low as 20 cents a bushel, the urgent need of slashes in the crop is being brought home to the farmer in an unusually forceful manner.

And many who otherwise would be unwilling to reduce their acreage will be forced to make a big cut for financial reasons, as many of them do not have financial backing to seed and harvest another huge crop.

Many farmers, however, are seeking extra precautions. A group of wheat farmers in one western county has voted a resolution recommending the licensing of all wheat farmers and making it illegal for one to seed wheat unless he obtains a license and subjects his acreage to regulations.

The farmers of Kansas are not anxious to break the all-time record of production set this year, and the surplus that has continued to mount up for the past several years is presenting a problem that is increasingly difficult of solution.

Many of the wheat producers have been forced to accept an extremely low price for their products in order to meet outstanding financial obligations. Others who can do so are holding back their grain and substituting it for corn and other grains in feeding cattle and hogs.

Excellent results of such feeding are being obtained, and the method is providing a means of making use of the surplus wheat and also is providing farmers with a cheap feed for their livestock.

Depression Has Not Cut Down Increase State Figures Reveal

In spite of the fact that times are hard, the number of licensed dogs in Lawrence County has increased, figures released by the bureau of animal industry of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture show.

More than 15,400 uncontrolled dogs have been killed in the state so far this year, which is a slight increase over the number killed during the corresponding period a year ago.

Prosecution of dog owners for disregarding the law now aggregates 3,802, or 240 less than a year ago.

One Leg Off, But Man Has Rescued Many Swimmers

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Sept. 18.—Although handicapped by the loss of one leg in a railroad accident many years ago, Bert Goins, 43, has saved 998 swimmers from drowning.

Goins made his first rescue in 1905, just two years after he had barely escaped drowning while learning to swim. A short time later, when he tried to board a moving train, Goins slipped beneath a wheel, and lost a leg as the result.

Determined, however, to realize his ambition, he came to Kansas City where he took swimming lessons and later became an instructor for the Kansas City Yacht Club. Then he became a life guard and instructor at a Kansas City park. Since then he has worked and taught at various parks in the city.

PERSONAL—There would be no need for A&P if you could deal direct with the farmer. For in the "good old days" what the housewife paid for food and what the farmer received for it were exactly equal. But as towns and cities grew, the farmer received less and you paid more—because of a clumsy, round about system. By cutting out many wastes, A&P is able to charge you less, and pay the farmer a larger share of the retail price. We bridge the gap between the farmer and you.

With an air of optimism, the New Castle high school Red and Black clad gridders culminated one month's training Thursday night under the floodlights at Taggart Field in preparation for tonight when Pa Newe's eleven inaugurates the 1931 football season, opposing Coraopolis high at Taggart field in a night tilt. The encounter will start at 7:45 o'clock. Late this morning Coach Phil Bridenbaugh announced his probable lineup.

Having been hit with an unusual number of serious injuries during the training season, the local mentor was forced to shift his lineup considerably. For this reason fans will see several promising gridiron glory seekers show their wares in the setto. The team that appears tonight will be largely an experimental combination.

James Mike and Harold Workman at guards, Crisci and Askounes at tackles; DeCarbo at center and Cicone at end have seen action with the local eleven. Kazenski will be a new member on the line. He will be stationed at end. Fred Hileman varsity end is laid up with injuries and will be out for a few weeks. In the backfield there has been considerable change since the opening of the training campaign. With serious injuries to Andy Lasky and Nick Uram which will keep them out of the lineup throughout the season, the local mentor was forced to use inexperienced men. William McIver a reserve griddier from last season was announced as the probable quarterback.

Patsy James, 10 second man during the track season who has shown football ability during the training season will be seen at left halfback. Across from him will be "Hib" Reynolds, another promising young. The fullback post will be occupied by Joe Wrona or Kominic. The writer's guess is Wrona.

The final workout for New Castle took place Thursday night under the lights. The drill was mainly a muscle loosener. Coraopolis high with four lettermen back from last season is reputed as having a great eleven that may average for that 27-6 defeat New Castle handed them in 1930. McCullough, a 200 pounder at tackle, is one of Coraopolis' best bets on the line. The backfield will be comprised of Kozak at quarter, Cardinen and Desko at half and Burke at fullback.

Game At 7:45
The season opener will start promptly at 7:45 o'clock. Faculty manager of athletics Ralph H. Gardner stated this morning. The gates will be open early. Plans and arrangements for the contest have been completed.

Fans will have an opportunity to witness the contest for 25 cents. Tickets for the west side bleachers, across from the concrete stadium will sell for 25 cents. Tickets to the bleachers can be purchased at the Cunningham avenue booth.

Reserved seats which are on sale at the Sporting Goods Store on East Washington street sell for 50 cents.

County League Series May End On Saturday

Universal Sanitary Can Corp League Title By Tumbling Shenango Pottery

Shenango Hopes To Deadlock Standing; Game Starts At 3:00 O'Clock

Fans are getting on edge for Saturday afternoon when the fourth game of the Lawrence County league series will be staged at Centennial field between the Universal Sanitary and the Shenango Pottery aggregation. The game starts at 3:00 o'clock.

With one week of rest the two teams are in the pink of condition for the fourth encounter which will bring the series to a close should the Universals win. A victory for the Shenangos will mean that one more game will have to be played to decide the league champs.

The Shenango Pottery team took the first two games on the chin. Last Saturday afternoon in one of the best games of the season the Shenango boys scored a thrilling 3-2 triumph over the Universals. The Universals have been playing championship like ball throughout the series. At times the Shenangos have showed up well while at other times they have made appearances of Copenhagen school boys.

Wylie Schiek or Pecks Huston will be the probable hurlers for the Universal aggregation. The remainder of the lineup will be the same as that that has participated in the three games. Carm Sacco, manager of the Shenango team may call on Paul McCullough to save the series for the Pottery clan. Sacco's second choice for mound duty will be Smolnik or J. Soho.

The series this year has proven to be interesting throughout with some of the most thrilling battles in a number of years. The opening contest ended 4-0 with the Universals on top. In the second tilt the Universals again won this time by a 6-2 count.

Last Saturday in a pitching duel between Paul McCullough and Wylie Schiek the game ended 3-2, the Shenango Pottery team the winner. Saturday's game is expected to be another battle that should please a big crowd. In the three games about 1000 or more fans have witnessed the three games.

The preliminary game the Pierce and Bartsch team will oppose the Marcellas in the third game of the Class B. mubball league series. This game starts at 1:30 o'clock.

Burke And Shute Battle Today In P. G. A. Tourney

Present National Open Champ Will Play Densmore Shute—Sarazen Meets Creavy

(International News Service)
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 18.—A former national champion and the present title holder, the winner of the Texas open last winter and a golfer who is playing in his first professional golfers' association championship—that is the lineup on the Wannamoisett links this morning as the semi-final round got under way Gene Sarazen plays twenty-two-year-old Tom Creavy of Albany and Billy Burke matches clubs with Denny Shute who beat the great Armour in a spectacular tilt. To beat Armour and then take Burke into camp would be a great feather in Shute's cap. Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, says he does not contemplate asking creavy for any more money. That's giving some of the other boards a well-earned break.—The Roanoke Times.

Special Price To Watch Game

Fans who desire to watch the New Castle-Coraopolis high game tonight at Taggart field will have an opportunity to do so for a small sum. A drastic cut in prices has been made this season. Faculty manager, Ralph H. Gardner has announced that seats in the West Side bleachers located across from the concrete stands will sell for 25 cents. Tickets for this section of the stadium can be purchased only in the Cunningham avenue booth. The price for seats in the concrete stadium remains the same as last year.

Union-Ellwood Play Tomorrow

Union High With Light Fast Team Goes To Ellwood City For First Battle

AUGUSTYN WILL CALL SIGNALS

Union High school football team will take things easy today. Coach "Morg" Boyd will send the Unionites through a light signal drill this afternoon in preparation for the opening game of the season Saturday afternoon at Ellwood City.

There has not appeared to be any serious injuries among the Union gridders and Coach Boyd can send in his strongest starting lineup against the Ellwoodians.

It is likely that the starting lineup will find Langman and Davies at the ends, Dece and Georgatz at the tackles, Captain Snizek and Fox as guards, Phillips at center, Louis Augustyn will draw the signal barking assignment, with Joe Jaworski at left-half and Gerald Ammons at right-half and Joe Augustyn in the fullback role.

Coach Boyd is anxious to see how some of the first year men act in big league competition. The kickoff is scheduled for 2 o'clock at the Ellwood City High field and indications point to Union being well supported when they trot out on the field to battle the Ellwood City boys in the start of the 1931 season.

Third Series Game Will Be Played At Centennial Field

Marcellas And Pierce For Bartsch Will Battle For Class B Title Saturday

With the series between the Marcellas and Pierce and Bartsch deadlocked at one all, the two teams will battle Saturday afternoon at Centennial Field at 1:30 o'clock in the preliminary game to the Universals-Shenango Lawrence County series game. The winner of the game tomorrow afternoon will play the Lockleys for the title of New Castle Mubball champions. The Marcellas entered a protest of the game played last night, but the protest was not allowed. The game remains as played having been called by Umpire Price when it started to rain. Hamilton and Books will handle the game. Coach Stage says that the way to be happy, though married, is to help wash the dishes. However, when Mr. Stage has ever been penalized for "offside" in the rush to the kitchen.—The Ann Arbor Daily News.

Techites Given Good Shaking Up By Coach Steffen

Coach Steffen Means Business This Year With Carnegie Tech Team

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 18.—A feeling of optimism in Carnegie Tech's football camp has been banished recently by the sloppy showing of the varsity eleven in practice games with the scrubs and the Freshmen. The pre-season outlook for the Tartans was very dark, with eight letter men lost from last year, and no passer or kicker available for the coming campaign. And this in the face of a grueling schedule as any club in the country must tackle. Things began to look up when Judge Steffen reported to take charge of the training camp on September 1, and immediately began to make linemen into backs, and backs into linemen, shifting the squad around radically in order to concentrate the strength where it was most needed. For the first two weeks of camp, definite progress was noted.

In a desperate effort to bring some order out of the chaos, Judge Steffen shook up his varsity combination again, leaving only Armentrout, Kavel, the two sophomore ends, Stewart and Lewis, Sample at one guard and Croft, another sophomore, at tackle, in their accustomed places. He sent O'Toole, a sophomore, to center in place of the veteran Alex Ducans, replaced the seasoned Fletcher at tackle with the untied Forsman, used Henry Dreshar at guard, dropped young Bobbin from quarterback to return to Duerger and replaced Heinzer at fullback with Pomey and Johnny Sayles.

Coach Johnston's Shenango high school football team will open its 1931 grid season Monday afternoon at Zelienople meeting the Zelienople high eleven. The game was to have been played Saturday afternoon but was postponed until Monday.

Coach Johnston with a few lettermen left from last season has an inexperienced team. Practices at East New Castle have taken place for the past month. This morning the Shenango coach announced the schedule for Shenango to follow:

Schedule:
September 21—Shenango vs. Zelienople at Zelienople.
September 25—Shenango vs. Ellwood City Reserves at Shenango.
October 2—Shenango vs. Clintonville at Clintonville.
October 9—Shenango vs. Slippery Rock at Slippery Rock.
October 16—Shenango vs. Mercer at Shenango.
October 23—Shenango vs. Besemer at Shenango.
November 6—Shenango vs. Union at Union.

Injured Gridders To Be On Sidelines

Among the spectators who will be watching the New Castle high eleven battle Coraopolis high tonight will be three varsity gridders who were dealt a severe hand by dame misfortune during the training period. Nick Uram, quarterback; Andy Lasky, halfback; and Fred Hileman, end, received injuries during the training period that eliminated them from the lineup. Hileman will be out for one week or so while Lasky and Uram have called it a season as far as football is concerned. Lasky and Uram are nursing broken collars, bones.

TITANS POINTS TO OPENING GAME WITH SLIPPERY ROCK NEXT WEEK

Jackie Fields Is Beaten By Unknown Squad Is Now Composed Almost Entirely Of First Year Men

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 17.—With the opening game with Slippery Rock State Teachers College but one week away, Coach John Lawther's Westminster College football squad, small and inexperienced is attempting to brush up the offense in order to be ready for the heavier Teacher outfit.

Next week's prearranged scrimmage will be on Tuesday, September 22, at Westminster College. There is no indication of the starting lineup as yet, but Captain Glen Rehfus has been playing excellent ball at tackle and will be one man on the starting team.

The Titans have had three weeks of drill already. The first two weeks saw two drills each day, but with the start of enrollment this week the morning drills had to be dropped. Scrimmage sessions were held on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon this past week and one is scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Coach Lawther gave a general call for candidates in the Thursday morning chapel service. This morning out of six or eight men for the squad, although it is certain there will be no starters in the list for two or three weeks at least.

The men still on the squad include Richard Fuller, guard; Geo. Cebala, end; Captain Glen Rehfus, tackle; Bryce Yound and Homer Dishon, tackle; Glen Shaffer, half; Alan Harper, half; James Blawie, half; Crawford Kutter, half; Mado Shlander, end; Harold Barry, end; Dean Turner, half.

All Sweeney, quarter; Bill Staples, full; Shert, Bush, full; Sade's Hunsake and Ward Young, half; Irving Franklin, guard; Bob Rose, guard; Hat, Helmick, end; Art Sluman, quarter; George Kapp, tackle; Pete, Leshons, end; Bob Scarborough, guard; Jim Lamb, end; and...

These 23 men will probably be augmented by six or eight others, but the bulk of the Titan grid burden will have to be carried by the 25 who have survived the grueling training camp elimination drills.

In all probability there will be two complete backfields, used by Lawther. Sluman will probably call signals on one backfield and Sweeney will do the barking on the other. Shaffer, Boker, Harper and Young are all outside of the line. Back halves, Rush and Staples and two freshman fullbacks with position guard wins of recent years, Larry Critchfield of Ursina, Pa. George Plance of McDonald, and George Pelt of Jamestown, N. Y. with George Bunker of New Castle, a new man. A regular tackle last year is being used in the new position with good effect. In the present set-up, Harry Rosequist of Grove City is the only veteran tackle, the others being William Hamilton of Philadelphia, Saul McCoy of East Liverpool, Ohio, and Floyd Almonst of Jamestown, N. Y. The squad has four first-year ends in Andy Beres of West Pittsburg, Kermit Subbertson of Warren, Pa. John Scola of Clariton, and John Tomko of North Braddock.

Five New Castle Boys Are Seeking Grover Positions

Day, Alexander, Thomas, Binder And Beres All Have Chance To Make Varsity

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 18.—Grove City's squad is trimmed to working size with 24 candidates surviving the final training camp Wednesday, and half a dozen experienced gridders expected to report for today's workout with the opening of the college year. Coach Berry posted his final cut at the conclusion of a stiff scrimmage drill Wednesday morning, when 12 athletes were released.

Captain Tom Shupe of Lancaster, Ohio, playing his fourth year at Grove City, leads a trio of veteran fullbacks which will assume plenty of punch in the attack. Jerry Munson of Jamestown, N. Y., and Walter Baylor of West Orange, N. J., are the other fullbacks. Arthur Alexander, and Ralph Day of New Castle, and Michael Kema of Struthers, Ohio, are the veteran halfbacks with Richard Thomas, New Castle, and Joe Toskin, Warren, as new men. Carl Deems of Sharon and Verne Smith of Latrobe, Pa., both new men, are the quarterbacks.

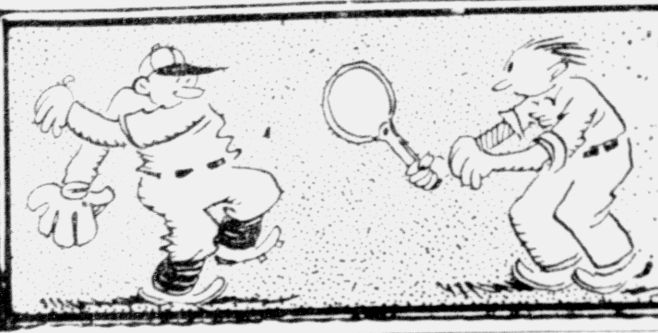

Five Locals In Camp
For centers, Coach Berry has two veterans, William Bache of North Braddock, and Tom Carnahan of Grove City. To replace the Crimson guard wins of recent years, Larry Critchfield of Ursina, Pa. George Plance of McDonald, and George Pelt of Jamestown, N. Y. with George Bunker of New Castle, a new man. A regular tackle last year is being used in the new position with good effect. In the present set-up, Harry Rosequist of Grove City is the only veteran tackle, the others being William Hamilton of Philadelphia, Saul McCoy of East Liverpool, Ohio, and Floyd Almonst of Jamestown, N. Y. The squad has four first-year ends in Andy Beres of West Pittsburg, Kermit Subbertson of Warren, Pa. John Scola of Clariton, and John Tomko of North Braddock.

Von Elm Picks Billy Burke To Win Over Shute

National Open's Opponent In Major Matches, Thinks Well Of Man Who Beat Him

SARAZEN PICKED TO TOP CREAVY

By GEORGE VON ELM
Written For and Copyrighted, 1931, by International News Service.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 18.—If Densmore Shute, the hero of Wannamoisette today, does not have to pay the penalty of a nerve reaction for his victory over Tommy Armour, he will give Billy Burke a great match in the semi-final round of the Professional Golfers' association championship tournament today. But while I believe Burke will have his hands full with the "mud-horse" from Ohio, I think the national open champion will be able to win.

I was very much interested in the Shute-Armour tilt yesterday as I would like to have seen the British champion play the American champion in an international match, but there was no doubt that the best golfer won.

The way Shute tilted the crown off Tommy Armour's head sent shivers up and down the spines of the spectators. Every time I looked at Tommy I thought he would be able to get the match square, whereupon Shute would do the seemingly impossible and win a hole instead of losing.

I think Burke will have to play at his best to beat Shute today and I figure Sarazen and Burke will meet in the final tomorrow.

Ellsworth Vines Tells Home Folks How He Won

(Ellsworth Vines, young Pasadena student at the University of Southern California, who recently won the national tennis championship, returned home today amid wild acclaim, and one of his first acts was to write "How I Did It" for International News Service.)

By ELLSWORTH VINES
National Tennis Champion
(Written Especially For and Copyrighted, 1931, by International News Service)

PASADENA, Cal., Sept. 18.—A natural slow starter from the first time I started playing tennis, I consider myself remarkably lucky to have come through to a national tennis championship this year.

At no time against a tough opponent did I give myself more than a 50-50 chance to win my match.

I confess the start of the tournament at Forest Hills last week, found me a little over-tensed, but still I felt that I could just about overcome that condition before the really tough opponents came around.

I played badly the first two days and by the time the match with Gil Hall came up, I was frankly scared of the outcome.

Service Was Good

Looking back over the tournament, I think my service actually pulled me through. I figured Fred Perry's weakness in the semi-final was his back hand. But instead, the Englishman was so steady, I had to change my game completely. He played a marvelous back court game. He was far too consistent with his returns for me to accomplish much except with the service, despite numerous faults.

I reverted to my old type of game—which I copied largely from Tilden—against George Lott. Although George was hard to pass at the net, this attack finally won out for me.

My fore-hand drive was my best shot through the whole season. The placements scored with it on many matches.

Bessemer Prepares For Lowellville Hi

Bessemer high school football eleven will start their season one week from Saturday at Lowellville when they play the Lowellville high school. Coach Fredericks is pushing his eleven every afternoon and hopes to have a strong outfit welded together when the kickoff comes.

A new low in modern big league attendance was that crowd (?) that viewed in Cincinnati a game between the Reds and Brooklyn. A grand total of 236 paying customers had the stands all to themselves.

Petercan Wins Fair 2:14 Pace

Betty Symphony Takes 2:24 Trot And Ben Volo Wins 2:14 Trot

ONE THOUSAND FANS SEE RACES

Although J. Pluv' descended and made the track muddy at the New Castle fair meet Thursday, the rain failed to diminish the fever of patrons of harness racing. Three good races were staged and a mule race, unique in this district, registered a hit with the crowd. About 1,000 patrons witnessed the events. The end of the two-day meet will come today.

Betty Symphony Wins.

Betty Symphony, bm by Lee Herring, could go no better than third in the first heat of the 2:24 trot in the time of 2:16 but in the next two heats, raced in the mud, Frank Vernon drove her to first for a win race. In the last heat, she was fourth by Betty Volo but came through on her last eighth.

Petercan took three straight heats to win the 2:14 pace in 2:10. The track was dry and good time was made but rain and mud slowed up the field in the next two heats. She apparently was best gaited to mud. In the third heat Petercan gave the gelding a great "fight" but lost by a length.

The prettiest start ever witnessed in this section and for that, in many others, occurred in the 2:14 trot. The field of six got the word, head to head and the patrons applauded vigorously. The 2:14 trot went to Ben Volo with Frank Johnson handling the ribbons.

No Scoring Delays.

Princess Volo with Oin in the buggy, took the first heat. In the second the field was bunched for the entire mile with Ben Volo first. The mud made the going hard. In the last heat, also won by Ben Volo, Princess Volo and Dock Chenault forced Ben Volo to lower his head and keep trotting all the way.

The mule race, a mile, raced in two heats, was staged with four in the field. Twin Jim, driven by Mr. Woolman, was first. Brown Jim was second. J. J. Woolman, son of Mr. Woolman, drove Maggie and won fourth place. Spark Plug with Bolecker in the cart was second.

It was the best starting of horses here in some time. C. T. Crum of Kittanning gave 'em the word. Very seldom the field had to score more than twice. There were very few breaks considering the rough going.

The judges were Dr. J. A. Walker, Harry Alexander and Mr. Sharp. The timers, Crawford Shoaf and William Hartwell. The president of the fair association is R. R. McGee and A. C. Shoaf, secretary of the speed events.

The races started promptly at 1:30 p. m.

Hurling Match At Polo Grounds

Fiery Daniel Breen, Irish Hero Will Lead Tipperary Hurling Team

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The fiery Daniel Breen, one of the most glamorous leaders in the last two campaigns for Irish independence, again will spring into the public eye here Sunday when his Tipperary hurling team meets a picked New York aggregation at the Polo Grounds in a game expected to be witnessed by 50,000 spectators.

Dan Breen ever has been an outstanding figure in Ireland's two national pastimes, fighting and hurling. While still in his teens he joined the Irish volunteers in 1914.

It was he who in 1919 fired the first shot at Soloheadbeg, County Tipperary, in the campaign that since has been labelled the Anglo-Irish war.

Breen Is Hero

As commandant general of the Third Tipperary brigade, Breen was the hero of more than a score of thrilling rescues, daring escapes and fierce battles. He had many a hair-breadth escape from death.

With one hand paralyzed and twenty bullets in his body as the result of ten years of battling for Ireland's freedom, Breen is constantly under the care of physicians. He is devoting his burning energy to popularizing the sport of hurling, which is more than 2,000 years old and was the favorite pastime of Brian Boru, Cuchulain and other ancient Irish kings.

The Prince of Rebels has imported the championship Tipperary team for a country-wide tour of the United States in a gamble for a fortune. The players receive nothing but expense money and Breen will get a goodly slice of the gate receipts, which may exceed $50,000 on Sunday.

Expect Schaaf To Defeat Griffiths

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 18.—Ernie Schaaf, Boston's knockout artist, was expected to arrive here today to begin training for his scheduled 10-round bout at the Chicago stadium next Wednesday night with Tuffy Griffiths, local heavyweight. Schaaf, pet protege of Jack Sharkey, is expected to hand Griffiths a trimming.

GEORGE TO START SERIES?

Through a few baseball observers cling to the belief that Connie Mack will at last permit Lefty Grove to start a world series, the general opinion is that George Earnshaw will see duty in the first game.

Southern Football Has Advanced Quite Rapidly

By EDDIE CASEY
(Written For and Copyrighted 1931 By International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—This season will prove no exception in the number of football invasions of this section by the southern eleven.

The rise of the south in the football world has been faster than that of almost any section of the country. Those familiar with football history remember how West Virginia, led by Ira Rogers, swamped Princeton by four touchdowns.

Not long after that, West Virginia mounted to national fame and scheduled a soft warmup game of their own with Centre college of Kentucky. The team arrived at Morgantown and looked pitiable, with shabby uniforms and about 15 players in all. When they all knelt down to pray before the game the crowd felt that they were in for a sad exhibition, but they were soon surprised Centre treated them to a great exhibition of the fine points of football. The next fall Centre came to Harvard Harvard finally won but the next year little Centre beat Harvard.

South Real Factor

Those two dramatic incidents marked the advent of the south as a real factor in the football world.

Since then Maryland and Georgia have beaten Yale and given the Blue many a hard game. Georgia Tech has ranked among the greatest teams in the country, and in every sense of the word the South has arrived.

Wallace Wade built up a great system at Alabama that led his teams to championships in their section and games in the Pasadena bowl for the national title.

Now Wade has shifted to Duke where he will try for new honors where several coaches have failed.

Beachman at Florida is an old Notre Dame player who gained fame in Kansas and now points to an undefeated season in the North.

Shauhinsey at Tulane has developed teams that won from the best of the big Ten Conference and proved tough nuts for any team to crack.

Fred Dawson now is at Virginia and will bring North his first team this fall to meet Harvard in what we figure to be a tough game.

Six Of Yale's Greatest Will See Big Game

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Six of the eleven players who, with Amos Alonzo Stagg, helped Yale win the intercollegiate football championship in 1928 will be present when Yale and Chicago meet here, Oct. 17, the Yale club of Chicago announced today.

Incidentally, this Yale team established a season's scoring record which has never been beaten, making 698 points to their opponents' none.

PIRATES GET FIVE

Five new Pirates who may play for Pittsburgh next season are Catcher Bob Warren, Wichita; Outfielder Stanley Schino, Wichita; Pitcher John Nigelling, Des Moines; Pitcher Leon Chamon, Ft. Worth; Infielder Floyd Young, Wichita.

British Budget Needs Balancing

Rumors Of Immediate General Election Dissipated By Budget Ghost

(International News Service) LONDON, Sept. 18.—Rumors that an immediate general election was in prospect for Britain were dissipated this afternoon with an official statement from 10 Downing street that the budget must be balanced before anything else can be done. The date of the election, it was said, depends entirely upon the "march of events," but nothing can happen within the next two weeks as it will take that long to obtain parliament's approval of the orders in council by which the government's financial reforms are to be carried out.

MERCER OUSTS ALL OFFICIALS

Not A Single Officer Holder Returned To City Hall, Sharon, Or Court House

SHARON, Sept. 18.—There will be all new faces in Sharon city hall and the Mercer county courthouse next year as a result of sweeping changes made in the primary election Tuesday. Not a single officer holder was returned.

The big upset came with the nomination of Joseph N. Nelson for district attorney who defeated Leo H. McKay, who for four years has waged bitter warfare against bootleggers and gamblers. Nelson, backed by the wet element, won by a majority of nearly 2,000. During McKay's administration he led county and state raids repeatedly and at one time arrested 105 members of the Sharon Country club when he found liquor in the locker room following the annual golf tourney. His latest move was the stopping of "bingo" games at the county fairs.

Mrs. Daisy Morse, seeking re-nomination for prothonotary, was defeated by Earl Hoagland. Mrs. Belle Emery lost to Marvin Loutzenhiser for clerk of courts and Dr. William Applegate will replace William McGrath as coroner.

Ex-servicemen, in the field for the first time, put across their two candidates, Robert Campbell for recorder and George Lawrence for treasurer. Frank Pair is the Republican nominee for sheriff.

In Sharon, Fred Thomas won for mayor, Jake Goldberg and Ralph Robinson for council and William Maitland for city treasurer.

Fail To Punish British Seamen

Lenient Attitude Toward Sailors Who Joined In "Protest On Wages"

(International News Service) LONDON, Sept. 18.—The traditional English attitude that the British Navy should be kept out of politics was belied at least partially responsible today for the un-expectantly lenient attitude taken by the government toward the unprecedented "strike" by 12,000 seamen against navy cuts.

While announcing that any future refusals by sailors to obey orders from their commanding officers would meet with regulation disciplinary measures, Sir Austen Chamberlain, first lord of the admiralty, declared that no punishment would be meted to those who participated in the "pay mutiny" at Invergordon, Scotland.

Mather Arranges For Son's Burial

S. Livingston Mather, Cleveland Capitalist, Asks Daughters To Join Him

(International News Service) PARIS, Sept. 18.—S. Livingston Mather, Cleveland capitalist, today made arrangements by telephone for the funeral of his son Samuel Livingston Mather, Jr., who was found dead at his Cleveland home. He also requested that his daughters, Miss Grace and Miss Elizabeth Mather, now in Cleveland, should join him in Europe after the funeral.

Already in poor health, Mather suffered a severe shock when he learned of his son's death Thursday upon his arrival at Cherbourg from New York. He planned to go to Switzerland for a long rest.

FLAMES THREATEN GIANT TANK FULL OF GASOLINE HERE

Employees who used fire extinguishers before the arrival of firemen probably averted what may have been a heavy loss at the Penn Coal & Supply Company, 911 Moravia street, yesterday afternoon where a fire caused by a short circuit in an electric motor threatened to spread to the interior of a tank with 25,000 gallons of gasoline.

A truck of the Bruin Oil Company of Franklin was drawing gasoline from the tank, which is set in the ground, with the aid of a pump driven by an electric motor. A short circuit had caused ignition of gasoline that had spilled around the opening of the tank.

The driver of the truck drove away at the first sight of the flames and employees of the coal company called central fire station. The fire was put out before firemen arrived. No damage was reported.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Between canning season, elections, straw hats going out and selecting a post office site, we had almost forgotten football. And then suddenly we find that tonight is the night for the opener of the season out at Taggart Field and immediately the old pulse begins to go twitter, twitter.

For the next eight or nine weeks there will be something to argue over at least although just what sort of a team the high school has this year is a problem. After the scandalous manner in which Lady Luck has treated the backfield nobody, not even Dr. Bridenbaugh knows just what it's all about, although magician that he is he may have a couple of rabbits up his sleeve.

But whatever kind of a team it is, win, lose or draw, good, bad or indifferent, your real fans will be rooting for them to win and if they don't win he'll be rooting anyway.

By the way do you have enough mason jars at home? And where do you get yours?

Perhaps it is just boyish enthusiasm, maybe it is just plain vandalism, but this thing of destroying property at the Taggart Field is costing the school district money. During the past summer a lot of these cute little lads who need the business end of a shaving strap have almost ruined the steel goal posts.

Somehow they pulled down the cross bar pipe until it was bent into a bow, stole the cross bar pipe altogether at one end of the field and twisted the supports out of line.

Up in the press box they stole the hasp, the staple and the lock from the telephone box, and the carving in the writers bench is so deep that it is doubtful if it can be used this season. Nice little boys.

There seems to have been something neglected in the home training of the lads, and if the janitors at the Franklin School run on to them, some of them are going to be eating their meals standing up for a while.

School Director Held As Slayer

Dickson City, Pa., School Director And Former Officer Held As Murderer

(International News Service) SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—Formal charges of murder were lodged today against Frank Gutnecht, Dickson City school director and former member of the city council and borough police force there, for the shooting of William Novak, Dickson city policeman, at a meeting of the school board in the borough yesterday.

The charges were preferred, county authorities announced, by state police who brought Gutnecht here for questioning shortly after the shooting.

Authorities were inclined to attribute the shooting to bitterness roused by the recent election.

(International News Service) CARLISLE, Pa., Sept. 18.—A handful of matches and a group of playing children today proved a fatal combination for Evelyn Shank, who died of burns in Carlisle hospital after her dress was set afire as she played with the group near her home.

Her clothing ablaze, the girl ran screaming through the streets while her brother, Ralph, vainly tried to extinguish the flames.

Methodists Reduce Number Of Districts

Erie Conference Will Be Divided Into Four Districts For Future Work

One of the outstanding features taken up at the Methodist conference in Warren this week was the reducing of the number of districts in the Erie conference. There will be four districts in the future. After much deliberation it was decided that the work could be expeditiously handled by four men owing to the improved roads and better means of transportation and communication. The committee will work out the territory to be covered and the names of the men who will handle the work.

Dr. C. G. Farr, superintendent of the New Castle district, reviewed the efforts, achievements and losses of this section. He noted an expenditure of $200,000 in the erection of the new Epworth church at New Castle, and expenditure at Enleton of $18,000. Additional improvements have been made among churches throughout the district.

The Epworth League of the district reports a gain in membership and interest. "Sunday schools," observed Dr. Farr, "are the chief organizations for training in Christian education. While the organizations and resources of the Sunday school are greater than ever before, there is still a greater need of activity and of strengthening these forces."

New Castle district has likewise been compelled to make certain retrenchments in local budgets and in world service giving, yet a bond of sympathy exists between the church and the people in a period of trial for both.

A new motor road to the top provides one of the most thrilling drives in the mountains. Notes On Cuban Life Including Hints For Winning A Duel

By DAVID P. SENTNER International News Service Staff Correspondent

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 18.—Duels are still fashionable in Cuba.

One school of this sport is known as an irregular duel in which other antagonist shoots the other on sight.

They told me the story of the Cuban senator and editor who were looking for each other with blood in their hearts.

The editor invited the senator to meet him on a grassy knoll at 7 a. m.

The editor schemed to ambush the senator. He arrived an hour earlier, at 6 a. m.

But the wary senator came to the spot at 5 a. m. and popped off the editor as he approached.

It is cheaper to live than to die in Cuba. If the rent isn't paid per month in the cemetery they dispossess the body and make imitation flowers out of the bones.

This engaging subject reminds me that a skipper of one of the vessels which ply the beautiful blue Gulf of Mexico told me that during the World War Chinese coolies were imported to Cuba to work in the sugar cane fields.

He said that under the migration laws each imported Chinese was registered and had to be returned to China within a certain period—dead or alive.

As a result when the Chinese workers died in Cuba their remains, sealed in copper containers, would
